80 Million
More People

"Ten years ago," said Barbara Ward, internationally known economist, addressing a national education association, "America's population whizzed by the one hundred and seventy million mark, and in the course of the next two or three decades something like 35 to 40 millions are going to come and live in this delicious part of the globe and probably within 50 years your population will be half as big again. So obviously in the not-too-distant future the dominant fact is going to be the deafening roar of pattering feet, shall we say."

"Clearly everything that we are going to say about the immediate problems facing us is going to have some connection with this basic fact, first about the American economy, but, of course, it has some relevance to the world at large. After all, these little pattering feet represent what we are most concerned with and that is people, the men and women of tomorrow, how they are going to grow up and the chances they are going to have and the kinds of lives they are going to lead. In other words, there is no more important thing we can think about than this fact of our growing population."

Double Population

Forty or 50 years from now, as the economist said, our population will be almost twice what it now is. Not many of us are planning for it. Our cities are growing. And, even more, the suburbs are expanding. Yet, the "no" people too often are in full cry behind the inevitable
"Judas goats." They vote against bond issues for sewers, schools, expressways and other improvements necessary to that future, only because the "Judas goats" have said they are unnecessary.

It was the old industrial revolution which built the cities which we now are so busy pulling down—or wishing to rebuild.
We all are interested in "urban redevelopment." This is a federal project which assists cities to tear down slums and rebuild themselves nearer to the heart's desire.

There are cities whose streets almost forbid modern traffic.
There is a theory that the streets of these cities were laid out by a drunk man on a horse. Still another school admits this was likely the origin of the street plan, but insists the horse was drunk, too.

It has become necessary to build expensive expressway systems.

The schools are overcrowded.
The suburban areas keep growing. But the sewerage system, the disposal plants, and the water supply rarely are planned to keep pace.

So, here we are.

We know right now that we are going to have to fit another 80,000,000 people into the suburbs and the cities of the United States within the next 40 years or so.

Where are we going to put them?

Where

Where are the necessary sewers, airports, water mains, schools, streets, and so on? Unless they now are in the planning stage we really are going to find ourselves in an impossible situation.

We have created enormous wealth. Our production machine has been expanded so fast that for the moment we are producing more than we can consume.
Business, therefore, is a bit "off." We are caught between the old concept of trade and tariff and the new one of the need for a world market to maintain our expansion.

Yet, as the London Economist's foreign editor said, we are at the point where our wealth will smother us if we do not learn how to use it. In a very real sense we must rebuild the face of physical America . . . tear down cities, or remake them, to take care of the 80,000,000 new persons.

More and more we are going to hear the word "priorities."
We cannot tax much more than now. So, we must determine what we will put first on the list to be done.

It still is true, as Oliver Wendell Holmes said, that with taxes we buy civilization.

What kind of civilization do we want?

To what will we give priority?

Girl-Killer Dies in Gas Cell As Phone Brings Reprieve

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., March 15
—Kidnap-killer Burton W. Abbott breathed the first lethal fumes of the gas chamber today while the governor's office was on the telephone asking urgently,
"Can it be stopped?"

It was too late—by two minutes.
The heart of the man who had murdered a Berkeley schoolgirl beat on for five minutes more, but no mortal power could stay the flood of hydrocyanic gas that finally choked out his life.

Abbott, 29, was strapped into the death chair at 11:15 a.m. and the pellets of potassium cyanide dropped into a container of sulfuric acid at 11:18.

At 11:20 a.m. the chill quiet of the death chamber was broken by the jangle of a telephone. The governor's clemency secretary, Joseph Babich, was attempting to deliver a second temporary reprieve. A previous one-hour stay had expired when the State Supreme Court refused to intervene.

TIME RAN OUT
Burton Abbott

Abbott, a tall good-looking tubercular who maintained his self-control to the end, was unaware of the taut drama in the back room of the death building.

So were the 50-odd witnesses out in front. It was warden Harley O. Teets who took the calls and replied, "Too late."

Once begun, the chemical reaction was inexorable. So thick were the fumes of hydrocyanic gas that it required an hour and a half for powerful fans to exhaust them after Abbott was pronounced dead at 11:25 a.m.

Abbott thus died as he had been convicted—by chemistry's immutable laws.

For it was the chemical analyses of Dr. Paul Kirk, noted criminologist, that had proved 14-year-old Stephanie Bryan was in Abbott's automobile. It was Dr. Kirk's chemistry that had proved Abbott's boots trod the bottom of Step-hanie's shallow grave in the wilds of northern California nearly two years ago.

Teamsters' Cash Paid Jockey's Travel Costs

WASHINGTON, March 15 (P)—Frank W. Brewster, West Coast teamster leader and race horse fancier, testified today he used union funds to buy transportation tickets for a jockey and a trainer.

He told Senate labor racket investigators he "intended to pay it back later" but had not gotten around to it yet.

He said he would repay "any money expended in that manner, either carelessly or otherwise," when an audit of union books is completed next month.

more Stables as well as the Western Conference of Teamsters, appeared as the climax witness of the current hearings which produced these other developments:

The committee ordered Teamster President Dave Beck to make known immediately when he will supply the personal financial record it requested. It threatened to subpoena them unless he surrendered the papers voluntarily.

Brewster testified that teamster records in which tax officials had an interest were lost in a basement clean-up "ordered by the fire department."

Beck told reporters in Seattle he had "no objections" to a subpoena. But he said he wanted to talk with his attorney, Tracey Griffin, before submitting his records. And the attorney, he said, was "gravely ill."

Brewster denied an "absolutely fantastic and completely untrue" testimony that teamster officials conspired with gamblers to take over rackets in Portland, Ore.

Brewster was asked whether union funds had been used to pay his personal bills. He said he did not remember any such instance.

He admitted, however, that he had his secretary buy transportation for trainer Mel Eisen and reports received here today said.

The Soviets returned a 43-ton Japanese fishing boat, allegedly

Jury Ready To Probe Court Sales, Weigh Charges Against 2 Marshals

The Fulton Grand Jury will begin a thorough investigation Tuesday of charges of dishonesty in connection with sales of repossessed property on the courthouse steps, Sol. Gen. Paul Webb disclosed Friday.

Besides exploring charges made against two resigned deputy marshals of Fulton Civil Court involving sales this year, Webb said the jury also will determine if there has been "a long period of dishonesty" in connection with them.

Grand jurors have been believed with telephone calls from citizens urging them to investigate conditions which brought on the resignations of former Chief Deputy Marshal T. A. Poole and Deputy Marshal Raymond C.
Bowden.

Meteor Lights All of Dixie

By the Associated Press

A meteor flashed through the Southern skies Friday night, suddenly brightening the earth from Florida to Texas and Oklahoma.

It was reported as far north as Missouri.

There were varying reports
—none confirmed—that fragment fell in a dozen places and in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast.

Dr. Fraser Thompson, Tulane University astronomy professor, said reports indicated it was a large meteor. Goode Lee, Army engineer at Vicksburg, Miss., amateur meteorologist, said the meteor entered the earth's atmosphere in a vertical position. He estimated the weight at more than 600 tons.

Hoffa's Secretary Tells Jury 'Everything' in Bribe Probe

WASHINGTON, March 15 (P)—Mrs. Dorothy Dobrescu, secretary to Teamster leader James R. Hoffa, testified before a Federal Grand Jury today about bribery charges against her boss.

The auburn-haired secretary, who is under $5,000 bond as a material witness, told reporters she "answered everything" she was asked during her 30-minute appearance.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel for the Senate Labor Rackets Committee, also testified briefly during the noon recess in the committee hearings. Hoffa is accused of trying to bribe a lawyer to pass him information from the committee's confidential files.

The jury, which convened yesterday, was expected to wind up its investigation promptly. Other witnesses included FBI agents and John Cye Cheasty, central
scheme.

Mrs. Dobrescu, 36, returned to Detroit, Hoffa, who is free on $25,000 bail, also flew back to Detroit today.

Lawrence A. Burns, Mrs.

Dobrescu's attorney, told reporters
"she answered anything she was asked." The secretary agreed.

The FBI arrested Hoffa, five-foot-five "strong man" of the huge union, Wednesday night on charges he offered Cheasty $18,000 to filch secrets from the committee's files.

After tipping off the committee,
Cheasty, a New York attorney and former Secret Service investigator, allegedly served as a "double agent" on the case. He was said to have obtained a job on the committee staff at Hoffa's urging, and to have slipped documents to Hoffa, some of which allegedly were found on him when he was arrested.

The government sought indictments against Hoffa and Hyman
I. Fischbach, Miami, Fla., attorney who was named as the "contact" in the case.

Wednesday of charges against the two men—made by Chief Judge J. Wilson Parker while the two were still employees—after they resigned.

Webb also said in a prepared statement that because of the "wide-spread public interest" in the case, courthouse press representatives will be allowed to review files daily, attend conferences with witnesses and accompany his investigators on the case.

This will be done, he said,
"without any request that any information that they may receive be withheld."

cusations against the two marshals were based, along with the

A Half-Billion Slashed Off Ike's Budget Bills

WASHINGTON, March 15 (P)—The House Appropriations Committee made its biggest budget cut of the year today, lopping $516,993,000 from funds requested by President Eisenhower for 18 independent federal agencies.

The $546,201,700 recommended by the committee was about 8.7 per cent less than the President asked for the year starting July 1.
The cut was the biggest made by the committee in four annual appropriation bills it has considered this year.

MAY SLASH MORE
Some committee members grumbled privately that the cut wasn't deep enough and there were indications that the House might be asked to slash further when it considers the bill next week.

To date, the House has followed the committee's money recommendations to the dollar, approving a total of 550 million dollars in reductions from over-all requests for $10,300,000,000 in three other bills.

The big cuts in today's bill were in funds requested for the Veterans Administration, the Civil Defense Administration and the General Services Administration.

VA FUNDS MANDATORY
However, $149,500,000 of the reduction in VA funds was in the veterans' compensation and pensions budget. Since these payments are a matter of law, Congress would be required to furnish more money later if needed.

The VA request for a larger amount was based on estimates which could vary.

The VA was allotted a total of $4,682,705,300 for all of its activities, a cut of $206,657,700. The committee told the VA to cut out
"the gingerbread and waste" in its hospital and construction program.

Percentage-wise, the Civil Defense Administration was given the deepest cut. It asked for 130 million and was allotted $39,300, 000.

Another big cut was in funds requested by the General Services Administration for stockpiling strategic and critical supplies. GSA asked for 130 million for this program and was given 19 million.
The committee commented that inventories on hand or on order are estimated at $7,200,000,000 and 81 per cent of the minimum target supplies are on hand or on order.

The committee approved without change the President's request for 10 million dollars for his disaster relief funds to help state and local governments during calamities.

Upper Plate Does the Job

NEW YORK, March 15—A banker handcuffed to a sapling on Staten Island by holdup men Thursday night gnawed the tree down like a beaver to free himself. He did it with his upper plate, too.

The banker is August Pynn, 48, manager of the Mariners' Harbor branch of the Richmond County National Bank of Port Richmond, Long Island, N.Y. He was walking toward a service station in Granville, Long Island, where a tire was being changed on his car. An automobile drew up alongside him, and two armed men ordered Pynn into the car.

The thugs took $29 from Pynn and a notebook containing the combination of a safe in the bank.

"That's what we want," they said. "We know you are from the bank."

In a patch of lonely woods, the thugs blindfolded and gagged Pynn and left him handcuffed to the base of a sapling about one inch in diameter.

Pynn found branches prevented him from slipping his manacled wrists over the top of the young tree. He then set to chewing through the trunk until he could break through. It took him three hours.

Then he walked to a road, hauled a passing car and telephoned police. The police rushed to the bank, but found no attempt to rob it had been made.
Pynn went home with a sore mouth.

The combination to the bank vault was changed today.

Husband, Wife Killed, 5 Injured in Crash on Bankhead at River

2 Cars Slam Head-on at County Line

By KEELER MCCARTNEY

Two persons were killed and five injured, four of them seriously, Friday in a head-on collision of two automobiles on Bankhead highway, Cobb County police said.

The crash occurred shortly after noon near the intersection of Lower River road and Highway 78, some 200 yards north of the Chattahoochee River bridge.

William Perry Stephens, 74, of Rte. 1, Austell, and his wife were killed in the crash, Patrolmen R.
D. Patterson and Emmett Burton said. Mrs. Stephens was 65.
Both bodies were taken to the Mayes Ward Funeral Home at Marietta.

4 UNCONSCIOUS

Four of the injured were unconscious upon arrival at Atlanta hospitals. A fifth was treated at Kennesaw Hospital in Marietta for cuts and bruises and discharged.

Two were admitted to Grady Hospital. They were identified as Glenn Walter Lyman, 28, of Los Angeles, Calif., a minister in the Pentecostal Church, in poor condition with possible fractures of the right leg and head and internal injuries and George Hall, 19, of Orlando, in fair condition with possible fractures of the leg and head injuries.

TECH STUDENT

Carroll Godwin, 21, of Tallapoosa, a Georgia Tech student, was admitted to St. Joseph's and was in fair condition with possible fractures of the right leg, head and internal injuries.

James Martin, 29, of 508 Woodward Ave., SE, was admitted to Piedmont Hospital, where his condition was described as very critical.

Morlan James Harper, 18, of Rte. 6, Carrollton, was treated at Kennesaw and dismissed.

Patrolmen said Mr. and Mrs.
Stephens occupied one car headed east on Bankhead, while the other five were in a car which turned from Lower River road

Midwest Snow Storm Kills 6, Shuts Schools

Minnesota, Iowa Traffic Tied Up, Power Lines Down

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 15 (AP)—A savage March snowstorm closed hundreds of schools, marooned travelers and isolated towns through the northern Midwest today.

A United Press count showed at least nine persons had died in the 24-hour storm, all in traffic smashups. There were five dead in Minnesota and four in Iowa.

Snow continued to fall, although in lesser amounts, through the storm area late today. High, biting winds followed, reaching 75 mph peaks and creating zero-visibility blizzards in Minnesota and Iowa.

CHICAGO SHAKEN
The wintry blast raced eastward and shook Chicago with gale-force winds. A man was injured on State Street when a big department store sign fell on him and trees cracked and windows blew in throughout the Windy City.

In Minnesota, hardest hit when the storm reached full force last night, the snow was 23 inches deep at Wadena, 14 inches at Aitken, and an even foot at Fort Ripley.

A Minnesota radio station reported 27 school closing notices through Minnesota and Western Wisconsin. Scores of schools also closed down in Northwest Iowa and telephone service to at least 10 towns in the Hawkeye state was knocked out.

POWERLESS
The ice and snow snapped power lines, leaving the Iowa towns of Greenville and Roscoe without electricity.

The heavy snows and drifts paralyzed traffic in many parts of Minnesota. Bus and air departures were delayed or cancelled, and, at St. Cloud, the fire department broadcast a warning to home owners to be on the alert because fire trucks probably couldn't get out of their garages.

Minnesota highway crews gave up the battle of clearing roads in the worst storm area because of the blowing snow and poor visibility.

MANY CARS STUCK
Earlier, the storm caught hundreds of travellers off guard and radio hams were snowed under with reports of marooned motorists. Nearly 1,000 basketball fans from Brainerd, Minn., were unable to return from a high school tournament at Moorhead, Minn., and had to spend the night in the town.

About 500 Iowans suffered a similar fate after attending a tournament in the town of Rolfe. About 300 of them spent the night in the high school gymnasium.

The storm front was well into the Ohio Valley by mid-afternoon, dumping temperatures dramatically after a series of springlike days.

Warmer weather was expected this weekend.

Board Asks Rail Raises Of 26 Cents

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—A presidential fact-finding board today recommended wage increases of 26½ cents an hour plus cost-of-living raises for 160,000 railroad workers involved in a year-old dispute.

The union had asked for a general increase of $3 a day and eight paid holidays. This adds up to 37½ cents an hour. The board's proposal follows a wage pattern acceptable heretofore to the carriers.

175 ROADS

Mr. Eisenhower set up the board last December to investigate differences between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and 175 class one railroads. Employees affected are mostly road and yard brakemen, conductors, and yardmasters.

The recommendations are not binding but usually lead to a negotiated settlement.

The board proposed an increase of 12½ cents an hour retroactive to Nov. 1, 1956; seven cents, effective Nov. 1, 1957, and seven cents on Nov. 1, 1958.

COST-OF-LIVING

Cost-of-living adjustments would be made starting May 1, 1957, and each six months thereafter on the basis of changes in the Labor Department's consumer price index.

The board proposed adjustments of one cent an hour, up or down, for each half-point change in the index.

It recommended seven paid holidays for yard men only as an "equivalent benefit."

The Railway Labor Act provides for a 30-day strike moratorium after the board submits its findings. After that the union is free to strike if no settlement has been reached.

Blimp Lands After 364 Hrs. With 2 Marks

KEY WEST, Fla., March 15 (AP)—A record-breaking Navy blimp landed at Key West Naval Air Station at 6:46 p.m. today, ending 364 hours, 14 minutes of continuous flight.

The ZPG-2, which ascended from the naval air station at South Weymouth, Mass., at 6:23 p.m. March 4, had flown far beyond two unofficial world records long before she headed in tonight.

Her total time in the air, compared with a previous endurance record of 200 hours and 12 minutes, set by another Navy airship in 1954.

Before the airship came in to land and make detailed reports, Navy officers estimated the ZPG-2 would have passed the 8,000-mile mark. This compared with a 6,980 mile trip without refueling set by the famous German Graf Zeppelin during a round-the-world flight in 1929.

Macmillan Will Ask Ike To Turn From Reliance on U.N. in All Crises

LONDON, March 15 — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will suggest a review of the British and U.S. approach to the United Nations when he confers with President Eisenhower at Bermuda next week.

A discussion with authoritative sources of British positions at the Bermuda conference emphasized today the government conviction that little real progress can be made toward an alignment of policies in the Middle East or elsewhere until there is a common approach to the United Nations.

The British government does not intend at Bermuda or elsewhere to suggest a revision of the U.N. charter. Rather it advocates a shift in emphasis away from the Washington administration policy seeking international settlements through the world body.

The view put forward by political and diplomatic sources here is that because of U.S. support, the recommendations of the General Assembly have now become mandatory for the secretary general. This, they hold, is not in keeping with either the spirit or the wording of the U.N. charter.

Princess Returns To Hear Pearl Sing 'My Man'

LONDON, March 15 (UP)—Princess Margaret appeared at a night club for the second time in a week early today to hear American star Pearl Bailey sing "My Man," a dirge of unrequited love.

It was a rare mark of royal favor for the princess to appear for the second time at the Cafe de Paris where Miss Bailey is starring.

But apparently her interest in "My Man" was nothing personal. She appeared to enjoy it simply as a Pearl Bailey song.

The princess was accompanied by her almost constant escort these days, London man-about-town Billy Wallace.

By DREW MIDDLETON

(Copyright 1957 by The New York Times Co.)

This view is based to a large degree upon British doubts about the responsibility of the Afro-Asian bloc in the U.N. The United States, the British report, believes this bloc has been converted to responsibility in world affairs. The British, with slightly more experience in the field, feel the bloc is prepared to serve national and racial interests before those of international equilibrium.

The British recognize the limitations of a security council whose authority is restricted by the Soviet Union's veto. But they reject suggestions that the security council should be abandoned for that reason.

Similarly they are critical of the U.S. policy of working through the U.N. for the settlement of outstanding international issues. The impotence of the League of Nations 20 years ago impressed Britons who are now cabinet ministers with the folly of ascribing to a world body powers that it does not have.

The moral of all this, British sources indicated, is that the United States, preferably in concert with the United Kingdom, should continue to act independently of the U.N. to establish international stability.

ARMED WITH CARBINES, UNIDENTIFIED MEN MOVE THROUGH HAVANA STREETS DURING FIGHTING
Action In Unsuccessful Attempt to Seize Palace and Overthrow Government of President Batista

Nixon Hears Libya Back Ike Doctrine

TRIPOLI, Libya, March 15 (AP)—Libya's Prime Minister Mustafa ben Halim tonight became one of the first Arab leaders to endorse the Eisenhower plan for guarding the Middle East against Communist aggression and subversion.

At a formal dinner honoring Vice President Nixon the Libyan leader rose to say his government welcomes the Eisenhower Doctrine in principle.

ABHOR COMMUNISM

"We—like the American people—abhor international communism," he said. "It is contrary to the principles of our faith and we are aware that communism with the American people, as with us, is public enemy No. 1 and that all measures possible should be taken to counter it."

Nixon, replying before 175 guests said he deeply appreciated Ben Halim's endorsement and added: "The Eisenhower Doctrine is designed to assist nations to maintain independence and is in no way designed to compromise them."

Addressing the Prime Minister, he said:

"I can assure you we in the United States in our foreign policy have one major purpose—to make it possible for all peoples of the world to be free and to live in peace with their neighbors."

NIXON PLEASED

Nixon, who is leaving tomorrow for Italy, seemed highly pleased at Ben Halim's unexpected endorsement, the first full approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine he has heard during his African trip.

Even Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie, who warmly welcomed Nixon two days ago, did not endorse the Eisenhower plan in words as firm as the Libyan Prime Minister used tonight.

Ben Halim coupled his endorsement with comment on U.S. policy in the Palestine problem and the Algerian revolt against the French.

He blamed the Palestine problem on the previous U.S. administration and said the Eisenhower administration "has proved to be closer to the principles" Arab peoples support.

DUMP TRUCKS HID SHELLS

Garbage Men Seized With Arms in Cuba

HAVANA, March 15 (AP)—Police arrested today the entire garbage-collecting staff of suburban Miramar Property Owners Assn. after finding a second arms cache in that exclusive district.

Authorities charged the garbagemen, dynamite detonators and a number of hand grenades.

Police strengthened the detachments assigned to guard Havana's airports after being tipped that some rebels involved in Wednesday's assault on the presidential palace were planning to flee Cuba aboard cargo planes.

An epidemic of stolen cars in the past two days also caused police to redouble vigilance by its motorized section.

The bullet-riddled body of an unidentified young man found on a farm in the outskirts of Havana early today brought the count of victims since Wednesday to 39. The number of injured stood at 55 and 100 had been arrested.

Rains Fall on Ike's Ship But Sun Waits on Horizon

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER, March 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower cruised the Atlantic coast from Virginia to Florida today in a fruitless search for warm sunshine. Instead he got some rain and murky skies.

Disappointed but reported to be "feeling fine," the President late in the afternoon received a forecast for better weather tomorrow.

It called for sunshine with the temperature in the 80s.

HEADED SOUTH

Eisenhower boarded the guided missile cruiser Canberra at Norfolk last night and at 4:30 p.m. today the big warship was 250 miles east of Jacksonville and still headed south for the area around the Bahamas Islands.

Eisenhower is on a six-day leisurely cruise to Bermuda, where he is scheduled to arrive next Wednesday afternoon. He will start four days of talks there Thursday with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Today's inclement weather kept the President in his cabin all day. Not once did he get out on deck. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty reported by radiotelephone to newsmen on two accompanying destroyers.

BID TO RID COLD

Eisenhower is on this cruise in a move to get rid of a head cold, a cough and inflammation of the eustachian tube in the left ear.

Asked how Eisenhower was feeling, Hagerty said he had word from Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who is aboard the Canberra, that he "is feeling fine."

"He coughed very little today and his cold and ear inflammation are better, although he still has them," Hagerty added.

BETTER EVERY DAY

The press secretary said Eisenhower is improving every day. Eisenhower arose at 7:30 and breakfasted in his quarters on prunes, oatmeal, toast with jelly, and coffee from which the caffeine had been removed.

About midday Eisenhower received from Washington, through government communications facilities, the daily report on world conditions and other matters.

AFL-CIO To Study Baker Feud

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The AFL-CIO moved in today to investigate charges and countercharges exchanged by top officers of the 160,000-member Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union.

Chief opponents in the bakery union warfare are the union president, James G. Cross, and the union's suspended secretary-treasurer, Curtis R. Sims.

Sims charges Cross with misusing union funds for his "personal pleasures" and maintaining an "intimate relationship with a person of ill fame," among other things. Sims also charges George Stuart, bakery workers vice president, with making "unwarranted financial gain and profit."

Sims lost the first round last week when the union's Executive Board not only absolved Cross and Stuart but suspended Sims pending trial March 27 on unannounced misconduct charges.

Sims, contending the board was dominated by Cross, appealed to AFL-CIO President George Meany. Today Meany laid the case before the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices committee and that group "decided to take jurisdiction and to investigate the matter further."

The AFL-CIO committee has no authority to remove any union's officials but it can recommend to the AFL-CIO Executive Council that a union be "disaffiliated."

Israel's Meir Flies to U.S. For a Showdown on Gaza

TEL AVIV, Israel, March 15 (AP)—Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli foreign minister, is flying to the United States tonight for talks on Egypt's reassertion of authority in the disputed Gaza Strip.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Mrs. Meir, in talks with U.S. Secretary of State Dulles and U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, would make a last-ditch diplomatic effort to solve a serious situation "before the government considers other means."

'DISTURBING'

As she boarded the plane, Mrs. Meir told reporters:

"What is happening in the Gaza Strip is extremely disturbing to our government and it was decided that before the government takes any decision it would be preferable that we do everything we can diplomatically in order to find a positive solution."

"My main purpose is to contact the American government."

"What is happening in Gaza is exactly the opposite of what was supposed to happen," she added.

EGYPT TAKES OVER

Maj. Gen. Hassan Abdel Latif of Egypt, at the head of a mission of 72 officials—including 50 military police and 10 officers—assumed administrative authority over the area yesterday.

Egyptian press reports said he was issuing orders to Gaza police and had appointed local governors for the three chief districts.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman said this was the first step in Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's plan "to transform the Gaza area once again into a base for fedayeen warfare against Israel."

Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion warned in a speech to the Knesset this week that Israel reserved "freedom of action" if the Egyptians returned to Gaza.

YIELDED ON 'ASSUMPTION'

Israel seized the area in her swift invasion of Egypt last October and November and yielded it last week after the United States and other U.N. members gave general endorsement to her "assumption" that the U.N. would administer the area until there is a final settlement of its status.

The United Nations Emergency Force of 2,600 men, which moved in after Israel's withdrawal and started to run the area for an "initial phase," bowed to Nasser however, in the absence of any clear U.N. directive to the contrary. Hammarskjöld's position is understood to be that Egypt legally can administer Gaza under the 1949 Israeli-Egyptian armistice.

In New York, the U.N. announced that Hammarskjöld, who had planned to take off for Cairo Saturday for talks with Nasser on Gaza and the Suez Canal, had postponed his trip, probably until sometime next week. It was indicated he was still in Cairo.

First Boston Bid Low on Southern

An underwriting group headed by the First Boston Corp. of Boston, Mass., was the successful bidder here Wednesday for the right to purchase any unsubscribed portion of a proposed 1,507,304-share common stock offering of the Southern Co.

Boston's offer of $135,000 to guarantee sale of the issue was the lowest of four bids opened.

Southern Co.'s stockholders will get first crack at the offering at a price of $20 a share, the same price Boston will pay for unsubscribed shares. The issue is to raise construction capital for Southern's operating companies, officials said.

Let Jury Get Truth About Court Sales

By all means, the Fulton County Grand Jury should investigate thoroughly the charges of dishonesty in court-house sales of repossessed property. The recent incidents to which two deputy marshals were suspended and later resigned with no further action by the Fulton Civil Court should not be ignored.

Sol. Gen. Paul Webb says the jury not only will explore charges against the deputy marshals but will broaden its investigation to determine if a "long period of dishonesty" and other persons are involved.

Most property disposed of at court-house sales involve delinquent debts. After it is sold and court costs disposed of, the remainder is applied to the debt. If funds are misappropriated, it is that of the private individuals or firms involved. The poor debtor himself is the big loser.

The information thus far indicates slipshod and lax methods in bookkeeping and auditing procedures in these court-house sales. How would it be possible otherwise for marshals to report property as having sold for one price when it actually sold for another?

The jury should determine if this laxity actually has contributed to a potential racket, presuming that it has not reached those proportions already. Certainly the potential is there and could have been taken advantage of by more than the two persons in question.

The jury owes the people a thorough and fearless investigation. Let it name names and fix the blame where it belongs. And above all, let it take steps to see that such loose procedures in court-house sales are ended here and now.

Cancer Society Official Cites a Shocking Fact

Dr. Luther T. Coggeshall, president-elect of the American Cancer Society, meeting with the society's national board of directors here, reveals the shocking fact that chemicals which induce cancer in mice "not infrequently" are added to food sold to human beings.

The Atlanta board has joined with others over the nation in demanding legislation to strengthen pure food laws and to give the federal government power to forbid use of any substance found to induce cancer.

It is a rather horrifying fact that irresponsible producers of foods will use chemicals which cause cancer in animals merely because it is not yet proved they do the same thing to human beings.

As matters now stand, such irresponsible companies could introduce into foods any new and untested chemicals. Certainly there should be all necessary legislation to halt and prevent this practice.

Atlanta has been fortunate to have been host to this important group. The American Cancer Society has been responsible for the rapid progress toward discovering the causes and cure of this disease which is a threat to every family. It deserves the full support of every citizen, himself a potential victim.

Medical science today believes that cancer can be conquered just as many other equally baffling diseases have been. It will take continued support of the society's efforts to bring it about.

Ford Foundation Grants Aid Georgia Hospitals

Final installments of the Ford Foundation's gift to Georgia hospitals, totaling $1,541,800, now have been received. These last installments were $770,900.

Twenty-five hospitals, nine in the Atlanta area, shared in the more than $1,500,000 given by the Foundation. A half billion dollars was distributed on a national basis. A little less than half was earmarked to help raise faculty salaries and improve medical education.

The gift to the nation was the largest on record. The Ford Foundation places major emphasis on assistance to medical care and education. It already has become a powerful influence for good here and abroad. Foreign assistance programs have aided the governments of less developed countries, India included, with a number of self-help, free enterprise projects.

Farm Split Paves Way For Indifferent Power

It would take the skilled needle of the world's finest tailor to mend the widening split over farm legislation in Congress.

The once powerful farm bloc is ripped along partisan and sectional lines.

The breach was torn further in the division over a new corn subsidy program. Republican leaders, solely interested in the Midwestern corn farmers' welfare, insisted that the legislation deal exclusively with commercial corn growers.

Democrats, tired of discrimination against Southern farmers, tried to include some provisions for feed grain growers across the nation. Offers of a compromise were rejected by the Republicans.

As a result, all corn proposals lost. But administration farm officials, always willing to extend bundles to the Midwest, promise extraordinary steps if necessary to protect the favored corn growers. Producers of other feed grains, as well as Southern cotton farmers, apparently are expected to be satisfied with the crumbs from the administration's farm policies while the Midwest gets the pie.

Inability of Southern and Midwestern farm area solons to mend their differences plants the balance of power in agricultural matters into the palms of urban congressmen from the North. They are about as interested in investing tax money in improving the farm situation as a goat is in making the college football team.

The Fee System Needs Permanent Retirement

City Council at Hoboken, Ga., has ordered an investigation into reports of a speed trap operating there.

Whether the complaints are justified remains to be determined.

However, one condition exists which surely needs correcting. The one-man police force is paid $40 per month plus half of the fees collected.

Many other towns and cities have learned from bitter experience that such an arrangement can cost municipalities much more in ill will than it costs to divorce law enforcement officers from the fee system and pay them adequate salaries.

The fee system for officers should be outlawed regardless of where it may be operating. It needs to go the way of the horse and buggy days from whence it came.

Standards Are Needed In Schools for Infants

A recent ruling by the attorney general that the State Board of Education cannot regulate nor license private educational institutions is undoubtedly correct. It should not have that power.

But the action does call attention to the number of such institutions which operate with little or no regulation. These include nursery schools and kindergartens, most of them creditable and professionally run.

Health and safety authorities should be concerned about all such schools, especially at a time when the need for them has resulted in more and more of this type of institution. Parents themselves should be concerned about the type of school they choose. It has become more of a problem under pressure of economics wherein both parents work.

Complaints from time to time indicate that more local communities and the state should set up definite standards for such schools. Sooner or later it is going to become necessary.

Little Midville Moves To Eliminate Its Slums

Midville is a community of 750 population on the Ogeechee River in southwest Burke County.

Midville has slums.

Its leaders, recognizing the presence of slums, asked the federal government for help in clearance and redevelopment. The Midville plan has been approved as workable by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Albert Cole, the agency administrator, wrote Midville's mayor, J. B. Thurman Jr., saying that the program was an ambitious one and the goal worthy of the effort.

A city does not have to be a metropolis to have blighted areas.

It's good to see the Midvillians recognize the right of a man to decent housing wherever he lives.

The leadership in this small community is to be commended for the enterprise it has shown in applying for slum-clearance approval and aid. Not many communities of less than 1,000 residents have faced up to the need and taken the initiative. Atlanta could profit from its example.

Memphis Commercial Appeal

When a driver from outside the city gets into surroundings not familiar to him, he looks out with more than average care and concentration if he is wise. People who are at home, however, all too often seem to figure they know the score when they don't. In any case, it is certain that the driver who hopes to stay alive will look alive no matter where he is.

Southern Tech's Director Points With Pride To Nine Years of Growth and Achievements

Chamblee—On Feb. 25, 1948, in an editorial you said: "The Atlanta Constitution takes unusual pride in the announcement that the new Technical Institute, a department of Georgia Tech, will open its doors on March 24..." The Constitution urged this institute be built after delayed action...

On March 24 of this year the bouncing baby at whose birth you helped in delivery will be 9 years old. And on its ninth birthday we want to say on behalf of the nearly 1,300 technicians of its alumni, "Thanks—not only for your initial support in hastening the birth, but also for your support over the years."

Since Southern Tech opened on March 24, 1948, it has taken its place as an essential part of Georgia and Southern education. Its initial enrollment was small—only 116 students. The enrollment for this winter quarter was 670. The faculty has grown from 10 to more than 50 teaching personnel. Industrial concerns have given shop and laboratory equipment and the State Board of Regents has authorized the purchase of thousands of dollars' worth of additional equipment.

The record made by Southern Tech graduates speaks for itself. Hardly a single large Southern company is a stranger to the holders of Southern Tech's Associate in Science degree. By publishing thousands of words of encouragement and news releases, you have helped make these nine years of progress possible.

Why Do Doodads Disappear In Ne'er-To-Be-Found Land?

In the Jackson Progress-Argus

If half the misery endured by man can be attributed to misdeeds of his fellow men, then certainly a large per cent of the remaining woes of the world can rightfully be traced to the total depravity of inanimate things.

That family which has not yet experienced the perdition of the lifeless, or the spirit-chilling curse of inert things can consider themselves among the world's fortunate few.

Buttons that break, earrings that hide, zippers that stick, scissors that vanish, china that cracks—these are but a mere handful of the numberless legions of those articles without life that can make the living wish they weren't.

Amazingly consistent, almost human-like in their persistent effort at devilish accomplishments, the lifeless things around us seem engaged in a deathless struggle to thwart the living.

With apparently supernatural intelligence they strike at life's most inopportune moments, when man's ever-lost struggle against time renders him most vulnerable.

When does a cuff link slip from man's grasp and fall to the floor to enter that void of unseen, or ne'er-to-be-found, from which there is no return on this earth? When? Why, just when Larry announces his and the prize prospects' arrival with the honk of the horn.

When does the zipper, which has snagged many a time in its long year's service, clutch clothing in its tenacious teeth and hang on with a deathless grip that only of the Atlanta Crackers' preparation for spring camp practice. There were three tons of equipment taken to Jacksonville, Fla.: four trunks of fabulous paraphernalia, 50 uniforms, 50 dozen baseballs, four dozen bats...

All the preparation and cost, though, will not guarantee a good baseball club. There is no substitute for good ballplayers.

Aged Citizen Protests Squeeze of Inflation

Atlanta—What does a person do when she is too old to work, too poor to pay and too rich for charity??

Having been a widow for some years I've struggled to keep up the payments on a modest little home, from which I now derive my only income. And, of course, as the years roll by the property depreciates and there's always money going out for plumbing, repairs of all kinds and incidentals, which leaves one very little for the necessities of life.

Too, as the years roll by, the old body begins to get rusty at the joints and pains overtake us to the extent that we feel the need of medical help.

Also, in the last few years doctors' fees and medicine have reached a high level. When one needs medicine at $5 to $15 a prescription, there is just no money for it.

What is the answer?

Irish Tenors Via Italy

Since St. Patrick's Day comes on Sunday this year, let's let a south Georgia Irishman get in an "Erin Go Bragh" a day before the event.

I quote the Hon. Pat Murphy of Thomasville, thus: "Some say March 17 is celebrated as St. Pat's Day as the day St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland. Some say Ireland was overrun with snakes and an order went out to shoot them. The Irishmen were green so they would not be shot by mistake. Others say St. Pat invented the wheelbarrow on this date to teach the Irishman to walk on his hind legs. Regardless, this is the day we all claim a little Irish blood."

The fight goes on and on about the nationality of St. Patrick. The French claim he was really Patrice, son of a Scottish nobleman and a French wife. They say the Pope sent him from France to Ireland to break up the habit of snake-charming which had become a religion.

The statement fathers the thought that some of the snake-handlers in our own country may be descendants of sectarians who wriggled out of Ireland with the reptiles.

An authoritative source says St. Patrick was the son of a citizen of the Roman Empire. Which may account for the fact that many Italians like Frank Parker sing an Irish tenor.

And begorra, where will you find a song prettier than "Galway Bay"?

As for the Blarney Stone, good Irish advice is that the best way to kiss this blessing rock is to let a pretty lass kiss it and then kiss her.

But kissing the stone is safer now, I'm told. There was a time this slab, which is supposed to give the kisser "persuasive eloquence," was on the outside of the tower of Blarney Castle. To put one's lips to the stone, one had to hang by the ankles head down.

The stone has been moved inside the tower. Ritual still requires that the kissing be done with an upside-down stance, but the hazard is not the same as when the suspension was over space or a moat.

And just to close this dissertation on the Irish in a kissing vein, here's a jest about Mike who admitted to confession to having stolen a kiss from the willing lips of friend Sullivan's wife.

"So you committed this sin," said the priest. "Did you kiss Mrs. Sullivan more than once?"

"Look here, Father," said Mike in all penitence, "I'm here to confess, not to brag."

By the way, Will Watt got more than $50 for the Bannockburn Monument fund, which is not bad considering the appeal was exclusively to Scots.

Charles L. Allen

A 'Modern' Person Looks to the Future

Most of us feel insulted if someone says we are old-fashioned. To be abreast of the times and to live modern, we don the latest style of clothes and we bring into our homes the oddest kinds of gadgets. Sometimes we even attempt to change our vocabulary and we bring the weirdest sort of words into our conversations. Anything to be modern for if you aren't modern, then you're through!

The word modern means mode or fad.

Much of our so-called modernity is little more than a whim of the moment. Just as soon as you think you're up-to-date the fad has changed, the fashion has been altered, the passing fancy has passed.

Genuine up-to-dateness is more than this. It is an attitude of the mind and heart, a posture of the soul. To be modern really means that a man understands the importance of the day in which he lives, feels a sense of "togetherness" with those who share his times and somehow becomes a part of the vibrant life of his generation. That is what it means to live modern. Anything less than that is hardly worth our concern.

I think the man who wants to be modern, first of all, should feel a thrill in life today. His mind will not linger overlong in the sweet gardens of memory. Rather, he will plant and hoe and harrow into today's growing fields knowing that today is brighter, more wonderful and more fraught with promise than yesterday.

Second, the man who would live modern must not limit the horizons of his life to today, important as the present day is. He will look toward tomorrow.

There is little that can so enhance, invigorate and add vitality to the mind as the "forward thrust" of the spirit beyond today and into tomorrow. Such a mind makes shabby such simple things as fad, fashion or an affected vocabulary.

The early Christians referred to Christ as the "Dawn-bringer." "The day-spring from on high hath visited us, to give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace" (Luke 1:78-79).

Early Christian symbolism used the sign of the rising sun as an indication of the spirit of faith. New light had come into their lives; the road ahead was bright with promise. The Dawn-bringer was with them. And He put into the hearts of men great dreams and wonderful hopes and then bade them to move toward the sunrise. Even after nearly 2,000 years the man who would be modern must hurry to keep up with Him who guides us on.

Russia Will Crush Any Satellite Revolt

WASHINGTON—Is any real headway being made toward easing the tensions between the Soviet Union and the West and, if not, what are the prospects? The answer to this question requires an answer to other questions: Where does "de-Stalinization" begin and where does it stop? What effect is it having on Soviet policy within its borders, in its policy toward the satellites and toward the free world?

In light of the record since the Khrushchev anti-Stalin speech, in light of the Hungarian revolution and Soviet maneuvers in the Middle East, U. S. officials have reached pretty firm conclusions as to the shape of Kremlin policy as far ahead as anyone dare foresee.

There is nothing on the horizon justifying any optimism. The consensus on the main points is this: On Internal De-Stalinization: De-Stalinization was never intended for export. Bear in mind that the text of the Khrushchev speech was not disclosed by the Kremlin but by the U. S. government. De-Stalinization was designed to reduce the danger of mutual blood-letting at the top of the Soviet hierarchy and to permit a little more initiative, a little more intellectual elbow room to the new Soviet managerial class.

Khrushchev began his speech with the assumption of Stalin's "great contributions" to communism and criticized him only for his "excessive" repressions against the wrong people—that is, against other Communists. De-Stalinization was not intended to go far. The dictatorship is wholly in control.

On Relations With the Satellites: Khrushchev and Co. misjudged the effect of de-Stalinization on the satellites, especially those with a long history of pre-Communist Russian domination. Today Kremlin policy toward the satellites is as rough, tough and unbending as it ever was under Stalin.

The force and fury of the Polish and Hungarian revolts took the Kremlin by surprise. The judgment of those closest to the facts is that the Soviets will use massive force against Poland or Hungary or any other satellite which goes beyond these two limits:

If it fails to maintain a "Communist system."

If it denounces the Warsaw Pact—which justifies the presence of Soviet troops.

On the Conduct of the Cold War: De-Stalinization has little bearing on the methods and goals of Soviet foreign policy. The goals remain the same, the methods, if anything, more venturesome, as in the Middle East.

Moscow's two diplomatic objectives are:

To liquidate NATO entirely, to see its organization dismantled and American forces drawn back to the shores of the continental United States.

To neutralize Germany entirely.

To keep things so stirred up in the Middle East that peace between the Arab nations and Israel will be impossible to attain. Its ultimate end is to cut off Europe's indispensable oil supply which, to Moscow, would be better than taking western Europe by arms.

There is no evidence that the Kremlin is open to productive negotiation on a single point.

Newsman Question Hagerty's Attitude

WASHINGTON—An incident at the White House this week, trivial perhaps in the long history of empires and republics, illuminates the growing tendency to restrict news coverage of the Eisenhower administration and its chief figures. Old-timers, at least, are getting irked. They can remember days—and not too far in the past—when government was conducted in the fashion of a Republic and not an empire. But for the incident...

President Eisenhower was having a get-together late in the afternoon in the White House with four Democratic leaders of Congress.

As is customary in such cases, newspapermen gathered in front of the White House where the cars of the visitors were parked so they could interview them when they left. While they waited, a butler came out and talked to the drivers of the limousines. Immediately they sped away down the drive.

When the newspapermen returned to the executive offices, they found out that the congressional leaders had left by a back gate. James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary who has become so much more than that, said it was he who had arranged for the visitors to use the gate, thereby avoiding the newspaper reporters. Then he added that the reporters had not been authorized to wait near the front porch!

Authorized!

Still remembered by some of us are the night meetings at the beginning of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration concerned with ways to check the depression.

Night after night we stood outside the White House as the new President conferred with U. S. Treasury officials and members of Congress. One night is more vivid than others.

As we waited it began to rain—a cold March rain. A friendly police officer invited us up on the porch where we had shelter. Presently out of the White House came an old friend to join us, an ex-newsman, Marvin McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries.

Mac loved to harmonize. His favorite song was "Home on the Range." He gave us the key and our chorus, rich and strong and not a little raucous, filled the rain-drenched air as we huddled together there on the front porch of the White House.

No one had authorized that! Then there was the gloomy tragedy of the "Day of Infamy" when the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor. We stood outside the White House then, four hours, grabbing for every scrap of news.

No one had authorized that! There was one president, incidentally, who had a fondness for that front porch. One day soon after Calvin Coolidge had moved into the White House following the death of President Harding, he was found sitting on that front porch by a secret service man.

The latter politely informed the President that it was customary for presidents to sit on the back porch overlooking the grounds, where there was privacy.

"I like to sit here where I can watch the street cars go by," the President replied.

So do we, Jim Hagerty.

Jewish Festivities Mark Biblical Freedom Fight

By KAY McLEOD

A holiday tracing its beginning to a Biblical battle that pitted human freedom against despotism will be observed in Jewish homes and synagogues Saturday and Sunday.

The two-day holiday is taken directly from the Book of Esther and is named Purim. Jews today observe it in compliance with a directive given by Mordecai in the eighth chapter of Esther.

The entire book of Esther is based on the efforts of Haman, favored prince of the King of Persia, to have everyone bow down to him.

MORDECAI WON'T BOW

Everyone goes along with his wishes except Mordecai, a Jew who is living in the country at the time. Haman becomes angered and seeks to destroy all the Jews in Persia.

The Queen of Persia, however, is Esther, a cousin to Mordecai. Esther goes to the King and Haman's plot is foiled. In the end Haman is hanged on the gallows he built to persecute the Jews.

Purim has come to be a gala holiday, but the Megillah, the story of Esther, is read in all Jewish congregations to remind the people of this fight for freedom.

SPECIAL GAMES

Ahavath Achim schools will observe Purim with a day and night carnival. All the youngsters in kindergarten will be costumed. Special games connected with each of the 14 Jewish holidays will be set up in booths.

The kindergarten program will last from 10 a.m. until noon on Sunday. The student council of the high school department will hold a special Purim assembly at the same hour. Students in grades 4, 5 and 6 will visit the Carnival from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and the United Synagogue Juniors will hold their program at 7 p.m.

PURIM BALL

Congregation Shearith Israel will hold a Purim Ball at the Atlanta Jewish Community Center at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Congregation Or Ve Shalom will start the celebration with a 7 p.m.

The Ex-Yankees

ST. PETERSBURG, March 14—Al Lang Field, the spring exhibition home of the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, is a picturesque site. Sailboats dart around the bay behind the left field fence; there is an airport behind the center barrier and palm trees and shrubbery in sight.

Perhaps it was the sunny surroundings which had put Lou Boudreau, who had brought his Kansas City Club here for a game with the Cards, in such a fine frame of mind. Certainly there's not too much about the Athletics to cheer a pilot.

However, Boudreau is an optimist, and he seems enthused over the possibility of the A's vacating the American League basement. A year ago Kansas City pulled up lame in the A. L. race, 45 games behind the champion Yankees and seven behind the seventh-place Senators.

Batting the breeze with writers before taking on the Cards, Boudreau was asked to name the club's strong point.

"Kansas City fans," he quipped. "His weakness is the loss column," someone said.

There's no doubt about Kansas City fans being quite an asset. Though the A's won only 22 games at home last season, more than a million loyalists paid to watch.

"Seriously, I think we'll be an improved team," Boudreau said. "We have more depth all round, and our pitching should be better."

—There's No Shortage of Quantity

The deal with the Yankees brought in Mickey McDermott, Tom Morgan and Rip Coleman, and Virgil Trucks and Ned Garver were obtained from Detroit. Alex Kellner, a 7-4 performer in '56, Tom Gorman, Wallace Burnette, Jack McMahon and Lou Kretlow are some of the holdovers. Then there's Ed Blake, who bagged 17 victories at Toronto.

"McDermott won 19 games for me at Boston one year," Boudreau said, "and he's throwing good. He should help."

Of course, Art Ditmar, bellcow of the '56 staff with a dozen victories, and Bobby Shantz are gone. The A's had to sacrifice quality for quantity, and Boudreau is pleased over the recent deal with the Yankees.

Bill Graff, the peppery little second baseman who hit .314 at Birmingham, is one of the reasons. Graff is likely to make the jump from AA to the majors. At the moment, he is sharing second with Curt Roberts, picked up from Pittsburgh.

Vic Power, another ex-Yankee on a squad dotted with former Yankees, returns for an encore at first, and Billy Hunter, a wrestling Joe DeMaestri at short. Hunter, once a golden boy in the Yankee organization, seems to have inspired DeMaestri, for the one-time Birmingham infielder is enjoying the first spring of his career. Hector Lopez, who stroked .273 last season, owns third base.

Wheeler Simpson, the Negro outfielder from Dalton, Ga., has the right-field job nailed down. He powered 21 homers and batted in 45 runs in '56. Bob Cerv, still another Yankee product, and Jim

BOSS BOUDREAU WITH TWO OF HIS YANKEE CREW
Tom Morgan (L) and Maury McDermott Came In Big Trade.

Pisoni, up from Vancouver, are scuffling in center-field. Gus Zernial, one-time Cracker property, and Lou Skizas, who graduated from Birmingham two years ago, are the occupants in left. Irv Noren is slated for pinch-hitting duty, but the erstwhile Yankee vet may become a regular outfielder, provided his weak knees are okay.

Hal Smith, a Yankee farm hand at Birmingham in 1954, will do most of the catching. He hit .267 in 114 games last season. Charlie Thompson is the other catcher.

—Sixth Place Is a Challenge

Though Boudreau wears rose colored glasses, he is still a realist.

"It will be a scramble between us, Baltimore and Washington," he said, "and I believe we can finish sixth."

Which means the A's will have to climb two notches higher than they did last season.

The Kansas City boss isn't among the delegation which expects the Yankees to stampede to another pennant.

"Boston, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago have all strengthened," he said, "and I look for a much closer race."

Does Boudreau think the Yankees are weaker?

"No," he said. "I think they'll be about the same, but the others are improved. For three innings Shantz is as good a pitcher as you'll find, and Ditmar is a great competitor. They'll help, but overall I think the Yankees will be about the same."

The Yankee colony now residing in Kansas City could do more than any other club to turn the American League rout into a race. Last season, the A's keeled over 18 times in 22 games against the champs. Washington contributed 17 Yankee victories, and Baltimore was the victim 13 times.

Isn't any great compliment to his current club, but Boudreau calls this edition his best team in three years at Kansas City.

For a change, he'll be able to change pitchers in the late innings, and the bench will be much stronger with pinch-hitters like Noren and McDermott available. But finishing as high as sixth provides quite a challenge to Boudreau.

If he had the Yankees, he'd probably win the pennant by just as wide a margin as Casey Stengel. But Boudreau is directing the ex-Yankees, and they are more of a cinch for the second division than the champs are to repeat.

Maybe the A's should play in St. Pete all season. When the fans get weary of watching the ball club, they can look at the sailboats.

Chestnut Avenges Cadilli Loss

NEW YORK, March 15—Aggressive Ike Chestnut of New York evened his score with counter-punching Gil Cadilli by out-punching the Los Angeles feather-weight contender in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight. The decision was unanimous. Each weighed 129%.

The 26-year-old New Yorker, who had dropped a split decision to Cadilli by one point last October, forced the fight against the jabbing Californian and that was the big difference. Cadilli contented himself with staying back and waiting for Chestnut to come to him.

Judge Frank Forbes had it 6-3-1, Judge Bert Grant made it 6-4 while referee Mark Conn had it the closest, 5-4-1. All votes favored Chestnut. The AP card had Chestnut in front, 6-4.

Almost every round was close as the 6-5 and pick 'em odds. Cadilli depended almost entirely on his stiff left jab and left hooks, rarely using his right hand. Ike used his right as well as his left and that gave him the edge over his cautious rival.

MANTLE MAULS FIRST, BUT CARDS CLIP BYRNE

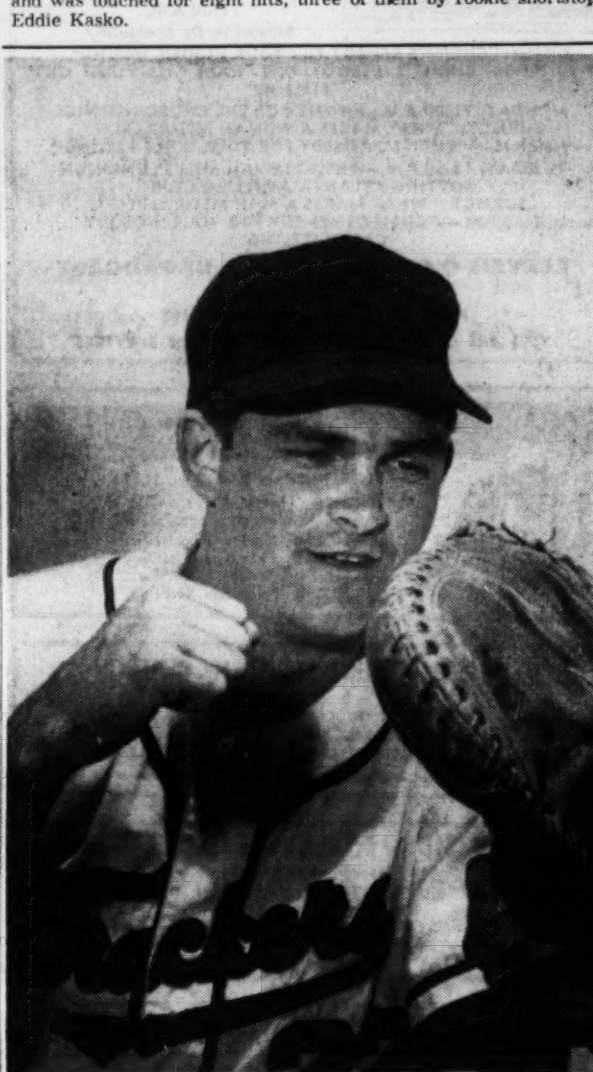

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15—Mickey Mantle unloaded a 425-foot homer in a losing cause today as the New York Yankees lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-4.

Mantle's blast soared over the scoreboard in left center. He was batting lefthanded against rookie righthander Tom Cheney.

The Triple Crown winner's first spring home run came with a runner aboard and put the Bombers ahead, 4-1, in the fifth inning. But Tom Byrne, veteran southpaw, was hammered for five runs as 10 Cards went to bat in the sixth.

Toothpick Sam Jones started for St. Louis. He gave up five hits in the first two innings, the Yankees scoring twice in the second frame.

Johnny Kucks pitched the first five innings for the Yankees and was touched for eight hits, three of them by rookie shortstop Eddie Kasko.

Young Crackers Get Waner's 'St. Vitus'

'Big Poison' Gives Potion To Hit-Hungry Atlantans

By AL THOMY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15—In this age of the rock and roll, it was a comfort to watch this little fellow with the pencil-like arms step through an old-fashioned St. Vitus dance.

He did a little jig around the batter's cage at the old Jacksonville baseball park, frequently pausing to bring his wrists together and go through an uncomplicated swinging motion.

It could be called a St. Vitus dance, it was probably the most successful ever staged in the major leagues. Actually it wasn't a dance; it was a demonstration on the art of hitting a baseball, and every Atlanta Cracker on the squad, including the experienced, wanted to hear more from Paul Waner, alias "Big Poison," Milwaukee's batting instructor.

Rookie shortstop Olin Saylor stepped into the batting cage.

"See that boy," said Waner. "He can hit the ball right off his elbow, but he won't go low for a ball nor high for one. He's young and he's got time to learn."

Next came Roger Jongewaard, a catcher trying for the Atlanta team for the third time.

"Roger has had trouble pulling the ball. I worked with him quite a bit yesterday."

Came a fast ball and went a fast ball right down the right field line. And right over the right-field fence.

"I believe he's doing better," smiled Waner, and you agreed since Jongewaard is a left-handed batter. He couldn't have pulled the ball more and kept it in fair territory.

George Morgan, another rookie, came forward. He lunged at the ball, and Waner made a mental note. A few moments later Morgan strolled up, knowing he had made a mistake and asking advice.

"You're stepping down with the pitch," Waner told him. "Stay upright and swing your body, keeping your position. Don't step down with the pitch."

And so it went, and so this young band of Crackers, the majority of whom won't be around for opening day, learned the fundamentals of the batting game.

"From what I've seen I'd say there are four natural hitters on this team," added Waner. "They are (Bob) Montag, (Billy) Reynolds, (Dick) Phillips and this young kid (Howie) O'Flynn. They know what it's all about."

You know, this batting instruction business is work for a diplomat. You can't walk up to a boy and tell him you're going to teach him to hit. He'd tell you to go jump in the nearest lake.

"You've got to walk up to him, and tell him to get on top of it, meet it solid. Offer the advice in a friendly way. Sometimes you go through the motion and they pick up it right there."

Waner went through his St. Vitus routine again.

Now if the Crackers would hit like this St. Vitus, there would be no worries in the little office on Ponce de Leon.

Manager Buddy Bates sent his Crackers through their second intra-squad game Friday, and this time Reynolds' team prevailed over Phillips' crew, 1-0, in six innings. Four pitchers divided the six innings, hurling for both sides.

The winning run scored on a two-base error by second baseman Dud Whitley in the third inning. There was one encouraging note . . . that was the hitting, which showed vast improvement over the Thursday game.

Young Rube Prater of Dallas, Ga., a rookie outfielder went three-for-three for the Reynolds bunch. He was the only player to pick up more than one hit.

Ray Engel and Reynolds blasted long doubles, as did Prater.

"I think Waner helped the boys tremendously with their hitting," commented Bates after the session. "They seemed to do much better today, though the pitchers remain ahead of them."

Quast Drops to Fourth on a Large 78 Card; Berg Skyrockets to Second on Brilliant 71

AUGUSTA, March 15—The one-day reign of youthful amateur Anne Quast in the 18th Women's Titleholders championship came to an end here late Friday. Young professional Mickey Wright moved up front in this 72-hole stroke play with a two-round total of 73-75-148.

Quast, 19-year-old Seattle, the Women's Western Amateur 78 over beautiful Augusta Country Club's lush fairways. This added to her very fine even men's 72 of Thursday gave her a 36-hole total of 150.

She was shoved into a tie for fourth place with professionals Ruthie Jensen of Seattle; Marlene Hagg of Delray Beach, Fla., and veteran Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas.

Meanwhile, Patty Berg, a six-time winner of this coveted links classic and co-favorite this year with defending champion Louise Suggs of Sea Island, rocketed from far off the pace into a tie for second on the strength of a brilliant one-under-men's par 71 Friday.

The redhead from St. Andrews, Ill., now stands only one stroke off the lead with 78-71-149.

Sharing the runner-up spot with Patty was chubby Wiffi Smith, the freshman pro from St. Clair, Mich. Wiffi, who is only 20, two years younger than Wright, has a two-round reading of 74-75-149 on the board with Saturday and Sunday's big rounds coming up.

Jessen, another fledgling of the LPGA tour, projected herself squarely in the middle of the championship contenders with a 71. Ruthie and Patty's rounds were the first below men's par in this year's tourney.

Suggs, who like Berg got off to a bad start with a 77, came through with a second-round 74 and is also in a position to make a run for it Saturday and Sunday.

Tied with Louise at 151 were National Open champion Kathy Cornelius of Lake Worth, Fla.; Rev. Hanson of Palm Desert, Calif., and amateur Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio.

Kathy had a 74 Friday and a 73, the day's third best round.

Miss Wright, a tall, power-hitting blonde who learned her golf at San Diego, Calif., has the game to fit this tough Augusta Country Club course, and most experts believe she will be plenty hard to overtake.

After three years on the play-for-pay circuit, the Mick is finally getting that all-important tournament toughness.

She has captured two of the seven LPGA tournaments so far this year—winning at Sea Island with a 54-hole total of 220, and at Jacksonville, Fla., with a 295.

Her only other win as a pro was in the '56 Jacksonville Open.

a total of $2,870. The California has been out of the money only once this year. That was in the Tampa Open when she discovered she was carrying one too many clubs in her bag after 12 holes, which cost her a 24-stroke penalty.

Wright, who stood second at start of second-round play, got off to a shaky start with a bogey five on the par four first hole.

She pulled her drive in the rough and had to chip back into the fairway, knocked it on in three and two-putted.

Mickey took another bogey five on seven where she three-putted from about 20 feet. She made the turn in 38.

On the back nine Mickey played straight par except for the 13th where she needed three to get down from the fringe, winding up with a bogey five. She hit fourteen greens in regulation.

Berg, in her 25th year of competitive golf, birdied the par five fifth and ninth and bogied the par four seventh to make the turn in 35.

On the last nine, Patty birdied the long 11th and the par four

Latest Mumps Scare Just a Pain in Neck

Medic Clears Dodger Gray; Senators May Get Minoso

The mumps scare in the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp at Vero Beach, Fla., was at least temporarily abated Friday night when a Miami, Fla., physician said rookie third baseman Dick Gray was suffering from nothing more than a stiff neck.

"Probably sat in a draft," said the doctor.

Gray has been ordered to bed in the afternoon when he seemed to show symptoms of the mumps. Rookie pitcher Ed Ritchie was running a slight temperature but he has no mumps case either.

Don Newcombe's mound debut was delayed until at least Sunday when a Friday night game with the Boston Red Sox was rained out.

MORE BASEBALL — Minnie Minoso may be headed for Washington. Chicago White Sox vice president Chuck Comiskey said he would be willing to trade any of his 1956 outfielders "with the exception of Larry Doby" if the right deal came along. Outfielder first baseman Roy Sievers and pitcher Clint Courtney are possible objects of Comiskey's liking, should he deal with Washington.

BASKETBALL — Southpaw shoot-off Dick Barnett hit a long jump shot with nine seconds left to give the all-Negro Tennessee State team an upset 71-70 decision over the NAIA's top-seeded Pacific Lutheran. . . . Rochester Royal owner Jack Harrison called a report that the NBA franchise may be heading to Cincinnati next season "a complete distortion of fact." Then, in the next breath, Harrison indicated Cincinnati was "high on the list" of prospective Royal homes.

AROUND THE SOUTHERN

Hollis, Kennedy Come To Poncey Bearing Memories

By PAUL ATKINSON

April 22 should be some sort of day of irony for two current Nashville Vols. . . if they are Volunteers by the time that date skips around.

That April date is a return to Ponce de Leon Park . . . to do battle with an Atlanta club that once had high hopes for them.

The fellows whose memories will drip with nostalgia are second baseman Jack (Red) Hollis, a peppery, good-field, no-hit guy, and infielder-outfielder Forrest (Frosty) Kennedy, a fellow who at 28 still has possibilities. Especially so with this Kennedy, producer of 60 homers in Plainview (Tex.) of the Class B Southwestern League.

Poncey residents of earlier days will recall Kennedy . . . the good-looking kid who came to the Crackers with a .411 batting average from a 1949 surge down by Riverside (Calif.) and also a sore arm. The ailing wing hampered him, and he finished the 1950 season at Pensacola (Southeastern).

Then he drifted. A .407 in Plainview in 1953 . . . 48 homers for Amarillo (Big State) in 1955 . . . then 60 last season at Plainview. Now back for a shot with Nashville.

Kennedy indicated he plays "mostly first or third." But he's smart. "Nobody is going to beat out the manager (first baseman Dick Slater)," he smiled, "so I'm a third baseman this season."

Hollis also has taken the slow boat . . . but upstream, and just as quickly back downstream. Signed for a tidy little bonus by the Crax, the redhead had a .232 mark in 1948. But a sizable boost in 1949, got him a trip to Springfield (International) and the Chicago Cubs' organization. He moved to Los Angeles in 1951, remained there until Shreveport (Tex.) purchased him in 1955.

Nashville coveted a second sacker this season, especially since early season sensation Larry Taylor tailed off badly down the stretch. So Hollis was the fellow.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED DEPT.—Fred Russell in the Nashville Banner has figured out that Birmingham's Arnold Portocarrero was the SA's most effective hurler based on a Branch Rickey system (ratio of strikeouts to bases on balls and ratio of innings pitched to hits allowed) despite a mediocre 10-10 chart. Portocarrero allowed 180 hits in 192 innings, struck out 111 compared to 54 walks. Atlanta's Corky Valentine was second in the SO-BB category with 110-54. Cracker Dick Grabowski was 100-99 on the SO-BB dept.

FAST SERVES—New Orleans could have a home-grown double play combo. Shortstop Bobby Stechman has impressed, ditto for second baseman-outfielder Ray Bianchini, both prep league products. . . . Memphis opened up its spring base at the Chicago Cubs' Mesa, Ariz., farm field Friday. . . . Chick manager Lou Klein moved out of the swank Maricopa Inn at Mesa into the field's barracks. "I wanted to be closer to the boys," he said. . . . Clem Koshorek, the Southern Assn.'s "Phil Rizzuto," currently a Memphian, says his lack of size (5-6) and unattached roof have kept him from advancing in baseball. . . . Memphis has a first baseman, Bob Pascal, who has never dipped below the .326 mark, but his top experience has been Class B.

That spring fire of optimism that always strikes last-placers is burning overtime in the SA's latest city, Little Rock. The Pels, who got back their franchise this season after relenting to Montgomery for a short while in 1956, have that rosy-looking hue. Ray Winder, general manager, talked with the parent Kansas City A's, and "the picture looks pretty good," he indicated. . . . One of the Little Rock hurling candidates is Jerry Speck, who had a few unsuccessful shots with Memphis in days gone by. . . . A familiar Little Rock guy, outfielder Hal Simpson, turned up in the Pels' Huntsville, Tex., base. He's just there to work out and see if anyone wants him. He's hit .314 and .354 in Class B ball since his 1954 departure from the Rock. . . . It's a three-way battle for second with Nashville. Jack Hollis, Charlie Grant and incumbent Larry Taylor are the job-hunters.

SHORT NOTES—Nashville opened its exhibition season Thursday by outslugging the Detroit Tigers' "B" team, 10-6. . . . Nashville used a batting order of ex-Memphis Chick Don Nicholson, CF; Larry Taylor, SS; Roy Parker, RF; Forrest Kennedy, 3B; Charlie Grant, 2B; Stan Holmiz, LF; Bill Newkirk, 1B; Keith Schmidt, C; and pitchers Bob Dobzanski, Tom Bramlish and Bob Siencak. . . . New Orleans has four consecutive exhibition games starting Saturday. The Pels get Augusta Saturday and Sunday, switch to intraleague rival Chattanooga Monday and Tuesday. . . . Birmingham used pitchers Kedy Carl, up from Albany (Eastern); Bob Cruze, once a Little Rock but late of Durham (Carolina); Gerald Davis, 9-10 at Syracuse, in its exhibition opener Friday with Charleston (American Assn.). . . . Veteran first baseman Ted Bartz has decided to give up baseball, he informed the Mobile Bears this week. He batted .275 in 120 games for the Bears last season, and hit 10 homers, but was handicapped by a bad foot.

Nix, Tibbetts, Pope Raise Owls' Stock

Jones, Farmer, Postell Give West Fulton Solid Nucleus

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The baseball teams of some of those City League coaches who didn't vote West Fulton even a Chinaman's chance for the top spot this year may have trouble getting the Bankhead Highway-men out before dark.

That is the considered opinion of one coach, who prefers to remain nameless but who probably spoke a parable.

The Owls were the only Northern Division nine to make Northside's city champs hump for their victories a year ago. And even if they call it Western Division this time around, the status quo on that score probably will not be much disturbed.

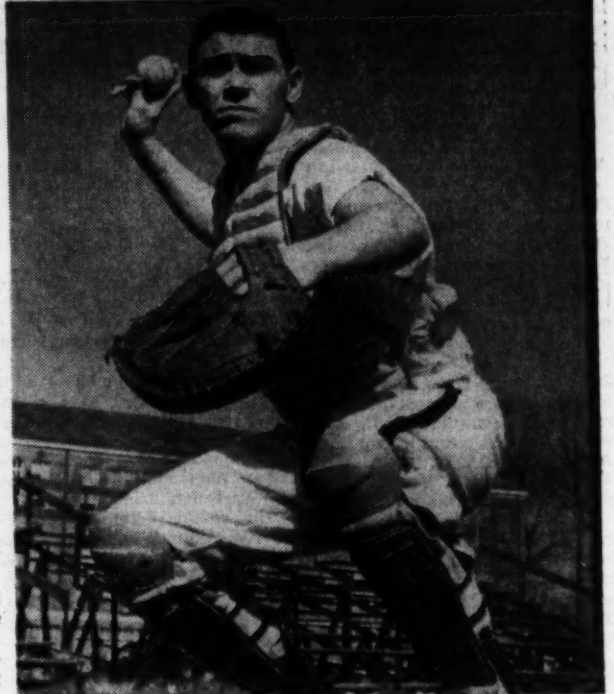

Paul McLendon, who takes over the diamond reins from Jack Hogg again this 1957 trip, has four regulars plus two pitching mainstays returning from the powerful 1956 unit.

Two of them, catcher Kenneth Nix and first sacker Marvin Tibbetts, whaled the ball at .442 and .422 clips a year ago. Both are good enough prospects to become magnets that will draw pro scouts to their home grounds at Center Hill.

Wayne Postell, 1956 cleanup hitter who banged .280 in what was an off-year for him, figures to rank with the best of the hot corner guardians. And strong-armed Earl Pope (.300), only all-the-way southpaw on the club, will rate with the best outfielders Region 3-AAA has to offer.

Alex Jones was one of the loop's most effective right-handed flingers a year ago. Lefty Benny Farmer didn't lose a game even though bothered by wildness in spots. Jones' record was 3-1. He hurled 27½ innings, allowed 23 hits, nine walks and 10 runs while fanning 22. Farmer (3-0) whiffed 27 in 25 innings, allowed 25 hits and 17 runs. He walked 19, but 10 came one day against O'Keefe when high winds played havoc with the pitchers.

Loss by graduation of shortstop Gene Jett, outfielders Slug Lindsey and Junior Chadwick, pitcher Jimmy Garrett and second baseman Forrest Hamilton will hurt. But not too much, except at shortstop, perhaps.

CRACKER DIARY

Reluctant Mossor Jax Visitor, But He Walks an Unsigned Path

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15.—Earl Mossor, the reluctant signee, popped up in the Floridan Hotel lobby here Friday morning, still unsigned for the Atlanta baseball team but apparently willing to get down to contract cases.

The 30-year-old right-hander, who compiled an 8-3 season after being picked up in mid-season by Cracker Owner-President Earl Mann, indicated he was ready to play . . . If and when.

"No, I haven't talked to Mr. Mann lately, but I want to see him as soon as he gets back to Jacksonville," said Mossor. "We're still a little too far apart."

Mossor found few faces he could recognize on the Cracker practice field. Only outfielder Billy Reynolds, first baseman Bob Montag and pitcher Fred Vogel are back from the '56 pennant-winning Atlanta team.

"Where is everybody?" asked Mossor.

He then suited up for a calisthenic drill of his own.

Consensus here is that Mossor is as good as in the fold.

CULPRITS FOR FRIDAY: Infielder Dick Phillips and catcher Roger Jongeward (pronounced Youngward), who hit home runs and forced their friends and neighbors into a lap around the field during the batting practice . . . Bob Montag ran through a light drill after turning an old knee injury Thursday. He didn't take part in the intrasquad game, but did a good job as umpire. He reports he'll be ready to play Sunday in the first exhibition game against the Wichita Braves.

ADD INJURY COMMUNIQUE: Pitcher Jim Umbrecht says his right shoulder, bruised by a wicked line drive off the bat of Dud Whitley, is back to normal.

Frank Menna, an outfielder who belongs to Gainesville of the Florida State League, visited old army buddy Bill Augustoni Friday and took time to blast one over the right field fence off photographer Slug Johnson, who is not a rookie in camp.

Menna, who once played for Vidalia of the Georgia State, and Augustoni were teammates in Germany. . . . ADD VISITORS: Atlantans Buster Travis and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Daniel and the Daniel children, all Cracker fans . . . On Friday, Manager Buddy Bates worked the Crackers on pick-off and relay plays . . . No intrasquad game is on the Saturday schedule. Pitchers Don Nottebart, Fred Vogel and Bill Augustoni, who are to pitch Sunday, will not throw Saturday.

State Bowling Tourney Goes At Marietta

From all points in Atlanta and Marietta, the ten bowlers come Saturday afternoon to do battle in the 1957 Georgia State Tenpin championship. Scene is the Larry Bell Lanes at Marietta.

"Most of the people this weekend," said tournament manager Joe Robinson Friday, "will be from the Greater Atlanta area. The downstate bowlers come in next week."

The tournament is a two-weekend affair. It goes Saturday and Sunday, then follows up next Saturday and Sunday. A record number of 70 teams has been entered. This eclipses the old mark of 54 set in 1954's tournament, one which Atlanta entertained.

GOOD NEWS FOR MARSE JOE

Gookin, Jordan, Simpson Sparkle In Tech-Tennessee Practice Game

By MICKEY LOGUE

Georgia Tech and Tennessee, which settled a football championship on Grant Field last fall, took after each other with baseball bats Friday afternoon in a game designed exclusively for practice purposes—not the SEC standings.

The game's vital statistics—7-2 Tech in six innings—actually are of very little significance.

Both teams were playing without key players, and Coach Joe Pittard loaned Yellow Jacket hurler Joe Taylor to Tennessee for the last few rounds. Vol baseball boss Bunz O'Neil kept his regular pitchers off the firing line because of a three-game series which starts Saturday with Mercer and ends at FSU.

It was the first scrimmage against outside opposition for either squad. That in itself gave the game its importance.

Pittard, whose workouts have been largely curtailed and canceled by the weather, was pleased by several phases of Tech's play.

The fielding especially was cheering with the Jackets just a weekend away from a seven-game series in Florida. Johnny Menger, maybe the greatest utility football player in collegiate football, and Dick Gookin were among those reacting more like retrievers than Yellow Jackets. Gookin and Earl Moore put considerable wood on the ball for an opening section.

"Gookin was the game's hero," said Pittard. "He had three hits and looked good at shortstop. He played there in high school, you know."

Gookin, a center fielder by trade, was filling in for Captain Lane Akers, who — ironically enough — was off to Knoxville, Tenn., to see left fielder Bobby Dover married off properly.

"I was pleased with the sure ball handling . . . some of the hitting . . . and the pitching," said Marse Joe, who couldn't hide a wave of optimism when Gookin drove one toward the right field wall.

Jack Jordan, who chipped in two hitless rounds, has really improved, disclosed veteran umpire Frankie Allen. "He's getting sneaky with that ball," Allen said.

Jordan and Bud Blenker were involved in the day's most significant decision. "Either Jack or Bud will start our first game against Stetson Monday," Pittard said, "and they'll probably both work it, that one."

FLAT FACTS—Umpire Frankie Allen pronounced Tennessee's Gene Simpson, "the best catcher I've seen in the SEC in several seasons. He's smooth behind the plate and he can throw." . . . Allen also figures sophomore Bud Blenker will be the league's No. 1 left-hander. "He's cool, never gets ruffled out there." . . . You might say the same way he was on Whack Hyder's basketball team. . . . Labs kept slugger Vince Terry away from his first base post. Blenker, Jack Jordan and Earl Moore were among those handling it for him. . . . Wesley Gibbs, who wears contact lenses for football end duty, sticks to his regular glasses when outfielding. Says contact lenses make him blink his eyes too much for baseball. . . . Tech's traveling squad was whittled to 18 when books kayoed sophomore outfielder Joe Chambers of Carrollton.

Middlecoff, Cooper
One Stroke Back

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Jackie Burke Jr., a friendly little Texan, fired a three-under-par 68 today and jumped out front by one stroke at the midway mark of the St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

Just behind Burke, who registers from Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., were veterans Cary Middlecoff of Dallas and Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla.

Burke, who won the Masters and PGA titles last year, had a 36-hole total of 135. He was in a three-way tie for third after the first round.

Middlecoff shot a brilliant 30 on the back nine for a 66 and 136. Cooper had a pair of 68s.

The first-round leaders, Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., and Bill Casper Jr. of Bonita, Calif., fell off their blazing first-round pace. Littler took a par 71 and was in a five-way tie for fourth at 137. Casper shot a 72 and was knotted at 138 with three others.

Par for the 6,215-yard Pasadena Club course is 36-35-71. The bulky field was trimmed to the 60 low pros, plus ties, and 11 amateurs for the final 36 holes. The cutoff figure for the pros was 135.

Tied with Littler at 137 were Panasola Open champ Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., who had a 68; Doug Ford of Mahoning, N.Y., 66; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., 68; and Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., 68.

Jackie Burke Jr., 67-68-135; Pete Cooper, 68-68-136; Cary Middlecoff, 70-66-136; Gene Littler, 69-71-137; Fred Hawkins, 69-68-137; Paul Harney, 69-69-127; Doug Ford, 71-66-137; Art Wall Jr., 69-68-137; Bill Twombly, 70-68-138; Arnold Palmer, 69-69-138; Al Balding, 72-66-138; Bill Casper Jr., 66-72-138; Mike Fetchick, 70-69-139; Lloyd Mangrum, 70-69-139; Lloyd Hebert, 67-72-139; Don Finster, 70-69-139; John Adkins, 68-71-139; Billy Green, 70-70-140; Duff Harrison, 72-68-140; Chick Harbert, 71-69-140.

An Ace ... A Warm Golfer ... and Trouble

A ONCE-IN-18-YEARS IS SUSAN INMAN'S HOLE-IN-ONE SHOT
UNS Coed's 14th Hole Ace Friday In the Titleholders Was First Ever In Tourney

NO TITLE BUT— Ace Plunks, Susan Hits Headlines

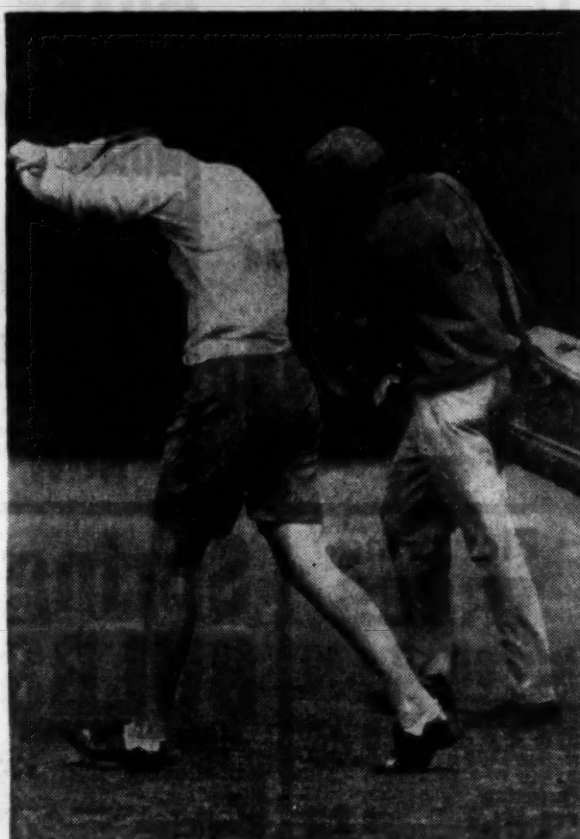

AUGUSTA, March 15—Susan Inman has found a way to hit the Titleholders headlines even though she's down in the lower half of the 49-player field with a two-round score of 170.

Susan's formula is a simple one if you can do it. Just plunk in a hole-in-one. That's what the University of North Carolina junior did on the 138-yard 14th hole of Augusta's Country Club during Friday's second-round play.

Though it was Susan's first ace and thrilled her no end, it did not throw her off her game. She parred the next hole with a five and birdied the 16th. Miss Inman is a native of Brattleboro, Vt.

Ralph Beshears, one of the Titleholders' starters, is the most harassed fellow in Augusta these days. Ralph is manager of the Bon Air Hotel and right now he has to turn down at least 40 requests per day for room reservations for Masters Week. He's been booked solid for Masters dates since early January.

CHIP SHOTS: Fay Crocker and Marilyn Smith will give a clinic and play an exhibition at Ft. McPherson golf club next Friday. They will also appear in the sports department at Rich's Wednesday, and at Reeder and McGaughey's Thursday. Mary Lena Faulk and Wiffi Smith have been booked for a clinic and exhibition at Standard Town and Country Club Wednesday. Fay and Marilyn are also scheduled at Ft. Benning Monday, March 24. . . . 16th but came a cropper at 13 and 15 to lose a stroke on each.

Jessen birdied the par four fourth and lost the stroke back on the 173-yard sixth to make the turn for home in even par 36.

On the homeward trek, Ruthie again lost her stroke on a par three—the 14th—but steadied for birdies at 16 and 18. That made it 36, best back nine of the tournament to date.

All 49 of the record starting field were scheduled to renew their attack on the hilly layout in Saturday's third round. Finals are scheduled Sunday. Low pro collects $1,000 of the $5,000 purse, while 12 low amateurs will be presented prizes.

Memphis St., Utah Top NIT Opener

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—Two basketball teams that rely on dazzling speed to offset their lack of height, Utah and Memphis State, open the 20th National Invitation Tournament tomorrow afternoon and may present the liveliest game of the dozen that will be played before the affair ends a week later.

Utah's tallest combination of regulars averages a little over six feet in height and Memphis State 6-2, but they're both willing and able to run all day. In fact, when coach Bob Vanatta, formerly of West Point and Bradley, took over at Memphis State last fall, he warned: "The minute you boys stop running, you're licked."

The Utah-Memphis opener at 2 p.m. (EST) will be televised on a national network (CBS).

The start a four-game first round program that includes Seton Hall vs. Xavier (Ohio) later in the afternoon and in a doubleheader starting at 7:30 p.m. (EST) Dayton vs. St. Peter's (Jersey City) and Cincinnati vs. St. Bonaventure.

HARTSFIELD'S HIS NAME PUDGY'S MAKING SWEET NOISE FOR MAGILL WITH HIS RACQUET

By DAN KITCHENS
Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, March 15—Standing just off-court, waiting only for a chance to claim one of the first six spots on Georgia's tennis team, is "one of our best prospects, as far as native ability is concerned," says Bulldog net coach, Dan Magill.

The "prospect" is not one of the hotshots off last year's frosh team. He is better known for his solid reserve duties on Red Lawson's basketball squad. Actually the "prospect" is a junior at Georgia, namely Don (Pudgy) Hartsfield.

The story of his tennis interest is one that Magill loves to tell.

"Just about this time last year," Magill relates, "I was out on the courts one cold, windy afternoon. Don came up with his racquet and since none of the team members had braved the weather to practice, I suggested we hit a few."

Apparently "a few" was enough to show tennis-wise Magill that the Atlanta Brown High product had a natural ability that needed only to be cultivated. So he took the erstwhile basketballer on the southern tour to Florida, and although there was no playing for Pudgy on that trip, he did end up the season playing number five on a six-man singles team.

With basketball season over now, the former three-sport ace at Brown (football, basketball and baseball) is back out for the tennis team, working relentlessly to make a place for himself.

DON HARTSFIELD
A Junior "Frosh"

lessly to make a place for himself.

In addition to his native ability, Hartsfield is a lefty, something of a rarity in tennis. Magill says that only lack of experience is holding Don back now.

"However potentially good a tennis player is, he can't be taught experience. He'll have to get that himself, and, of course, there's only one way—by playing, and playing and playing," Magill emphasized.

Hartsfield has a tough job ahead of him. Last year's talented-heavy frosh have moved up, and at least two of them are currently set at the No. 1 and 2 singles positions. As a matter of fact, four lettermen still in school, are not out for the team, because they couldn't make it. But Hartsfield is "playing, and playing and playing" to the extent that he will again make the southern tour to Florida.

Magill says Pudgy will definitely combine with Louis Smith or Richard Courts to form one of the three varsity doubles combos. If it is Hartsfield and Courts, Magill will be throwing a complete portside doubles team at opponents this season.

It's a pretty safe bet that at sometime during the season, determined and talented Hartsfield will add enough experience to move into the varsity singles line-up.

April 1 Deadline For Babe Ruthers

April 1 is the last day for interested persons to apply for a 1957 Babe Ruth League franchise. State Director J. C. Robinson announced Friday.

Applications should be sent to Babe Ruth Headquarters, 524½ Hamilton Ave., Trenton, N.J.

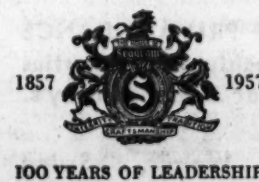

A record 20 leagues are anticipated for Georgia this season. Newcomers so far are the Warner Robins and Jefferson Park loops. Tri-Cities won the State championships last season. The program includes boys from 13 through 15 years old.

neuverings all but obscured the crime for which Abbott died—a double death sentence of kidnapping and murder, with sex believed the motive.

Stephanie Bryan, a studious little 14-year-old girl with a fawn-like shyness, vanished on the way home from school April 28, 1955.

Three months later, Abbott's red-haired wife, Georgia, accidentally found Stephanie's purse in the basement of the Alameda home occupied by the Abbotts and their 4-year-old son. Her call to the police unwittingly led to her husband's execution.

Ed Montgomery, a reporter for the San Francisco Examiner, discovered Stephanie's body near the Trinity County summer cabin of the Abbott family after other searchers had failed.

Abbott was convicted after an 84-day trial in Oakland. He consistently denied all knowledge of the crime.

Abbott maintained his calm today. "He made an extreme effort to control himself," Warden Teets said, "and succeeded by a narrow margin."

Failing in earlier appeals to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, to the California Supreme Court, U. S. District Court and to the U. S. Supreme Court, Abbott's defense counsel lost another attempt to delay the execution this morning when U. S. Circuit Judge Walter L. Pope declined to intervene.

CARRIER TELEPHONED

Then attorney George T. Davis reached Gov. Knight by telephone aboard the aircraft carrier Hancock, Gov. Knight was preparing to take a cruise from Alameda with the Navy.

At 9:10 the governor granted a one-hour stay to permit Davis to make one more try to the State Supreme Court on grounds statements taken by the prosecution had prejudiced Abbott's rights.

The execution was postponed from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. But at 10:41 the Supreme Court rejected Davis' plea.

Warden Teets went to Abbott's cell a minute before 11 a.m. and told him the news.

Leo Sullivan, another Abbott lawyer, asked the warden by telephone at 11:01 a.m. to delay still further, but the warden had no power to act on his own.

FINAL PLEA
Davis again reached the governor by radiophone, begging for "one more hour to make a final plea" to another federal judge.

The governor had to call by radio telephone from the Hancock to the Alameda Naval Air Station shore base for relay to his office in Sacramento.

"The Davis call did not come through until 11:14 a.m.," the governor said later. "Two ship-to-shore lines were open at all times for Mr. Davis' use. There was no delay."

HE TRIES
The governor said he told Davis it was "a little late" but he would try.

This was the call that arrived two minutes after Abbott had taken the first gulp of gas.

Warden Teets said he had told secretary Babich by telephone at 10:45 a.m. that he was planning the execution for 11:15 a.m.

He said Babich replied, "Hold it a minute; we have the governor on another line," then returned and said, "All right, that is all."

jockey Richard Cavallero when they were unable to get reservations by other means.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) asked Brewster whether such conduct would "recommend you to the esteem and confidence of the men who pay the dues?"

'NOT GOOD'

"I wouldn't say it would be good," replied the suave, graying union leader.

"I have never conspired with anyone at any time or place to engage in any way or control in any manner any racket in the city of Portland or anywhere else," Brewster said. "Nor do I know of any official or employee of the Teamsters who has."

The committee questioned Brewster closely about the disappearance of union records. It was the second instance of missing records reported to the committee.

BREWSTER TAKES TIME

The group had planned to wind up today its three-week investigation of racketeers and Teamster officials in Portland, with Brewster as the climactic witness. However, counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he could not complete the questioning of Brewster in one day.

McClellan said the group would decide later what to do about further hearings. He said he had heard nothing directly from Beck since the portly union president returned from a European trip Sunday and announced he would testify.

He wired Beck renewing his request for all of the Teamster leader's personal financial books and records from 1949 through 1955 which pertain to loans or advances from the union.

WANTS DEAL DATA

McClellan asked for records on "any financial transactions that you have had with companies, corporations or individuals having contracts or financial dealings" with the union.

"Please advise today by return wire when these records will be forthcoming," the telegram said.

into Bankhead. A witness was quoted as saying the car making the right turn into Bankhead swerved over the center line.

Both cars were demolished. Atlanta Patrolmen G. S. Robertson and J. W. Lewis, first officers to reach the scene, said Stephens was pinned in the wreckage of one car. Firemen from the Riverside station assisted in removing the body.

Robertson and Lewis said the autos collided with such force that the drive shaft was ripped out of one vehicle and the dash board of the other was pushed against the front seat.

Cobb County officers said a hold order was placed against Hall, who was believed to be driver of the car which made a turn into Bankhead.

In two other Georgia traffic accidents both on Highway 78 Friday, a Cedartown optometrist and a Ft. Gordon major were killed.

Dr. Charles C. Robinson Jr., 38, was killed when the station wagon he was driving left Highway 78 five miles west of Cedartown and overturned several times.

Maj. Luis O. Mederos of Augusta was fatally injured in a three-car collision at the intersection of Highway 78 and Wheelers road in Augusta.

Seriously injured in the crash was a soldier identified only as Specialist First Class Mancillas of Augusta, a passenger in the car with Mederos.

Investigating officers said brakes on a truck failed and the vehicle rolled across Highway 78 in the path of the Mederos car. After the impact, the Mederos car swerved and collided with another car driven by M. Sgt. Fred Duncan. Duncan and the driver of the truck, identified as Ernest P. Smith of Wrightsville, did not require hospital treatment.

velopment on the island." Thrasher declared.

But Griffin maintained that "the state can't economically operate hotels, sleeping places and things of that kind." He said this must be done by private developers.

The governor also said he does not plan to lift "at the moment" a freeze he imposed last July on about $111,500 of Jekyll Island appropriations.

NOT FOR BUILDING

"It may not be necessary," Griffin said. "It might be more judicious to leave this money in the treasury and let them sell some lots, so for once we can let somebody else's money develop the island."

"I do not intend to transfer any money from tax dollars in the state treasury to build buildings," he said.

Another member of the new authority, Chairman Matt L. McWhorter of the Public Service Commission, appeared to be in agreement with the governor on development of the island by private capital.

"SOUNDTEST WAY"

"You're going to have motels and low-cost housing to make it go," McWhorter said. "The most practical and soundest way for this to be done would be by private enterprise and by people who know this type of business."

Attorney General Eugene Cook, also a new authority member, declined to comment on the development question. But he said he was "optimistic" that the authority will "solve the problem of Jekyll Island in a way that will be acceptable to the general public."

The spokesman would admit only that there are six battalions of atomic cannon in Germany, each with six cannon. There also are six battalions of Corporal rockets and five battalions of Honest Joins. But the number of rockets and their launchers is secret.

A Bonn Foreign Office official said he did not know whether the United States had given permission to the German government to store atomic weapons and ammunition in the country.

CITY HALL NEWS

New Home OnUnopened RoadAllowed

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Despite a heated battle over an unopened road, the municipal board of adjustments Friday voted to permit John R. Talbott Jr. to erect a residence on a tract of land fronting 130 feet on the north side of Crane road, N.E.

Neighbors, contending Talbott had no road frontage, had protested. Building Inspector William R. Wofford had stopped work on the structure when the protest was filed.

Board members by a two-to-one vote Friday sustained Talbott and agreed that the work can be resumed. Alfred T. Pitman, board chairman, and A. C. Wellborn voted to sustain Talbott, while Philip Alston Jr., another board member, voted against that procedure.

The board also approved the two other petitions considered.

2 Students Honored

Miss Martha Alice Tovall of Southwest High School, and Charles Bartel Walls of Brown High School, have been awarded $100 each in the "most valuable student" contest sponsored by Cascade Lodge No. 184, BPOE, Winton Teagle, committee chairman, informed Asst. School Supt. Roy Davis Friday.

Thanks to City Crew

Ray Nixon, assistant city construction chief, and his aides Friday got an appreciation bouquet. A. P. Ragsdale, 1272 Fairview Road, N.E., wrote Nixon thanking him and street crews for laying a driveway at Ragsdale's property and also for the "fine work you and your crews are doing to improve the city." Ragsdale enclosed a check for $65 to pay for the driveway.

DeKalb Judge

Calls for Briefs In Maddox Case

Attorneys in the case of Fulton County probation officer George Allen Maddox have been given a week to file briefs in the case with DeKalb Superior Court Judge Clarence Vaughn. The DeKalb Superior Court judge heard the case Wednesday because Fulton judges, for whom Maddox worked, excused themselves.

Judge Vaughn said it may be two or three days after the briefs are filed before a decision is reached. Maddox has refused to retire at the age of 70 because he holds office under appointment by Fulton Superior Court judges.

County Manager A. E. Fuller contends Maddox comes under the compulsory retirement program and ordered his pay cut off in January. The probation officer has filed a mandamus (court order) to have his pay restored.

NLRB Referee Backs Envelope Firm Here

Constitution Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, March 15 — A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner today recommended that the NLRB dismiss a complaint of unfair labor practices against the Atlanta plant of the United States Envelope Company. The United Paperworkers of America (AFL-CIO) filed charges against the company April 9, 1956.

Dr. Lokey's Library Given to Negro Clinic

The complete medical library of Dr. Hugh M. Lokey, who practiced medicine in Georgia more than 50 years before his recent death, has been given by his wife to the Hughes Spalding Clinic of Grady Hospital.

Mrs. Lokey said that her husband had given to the library he had given to the Negro hospital. She said Dr. Lokey was on the staff of Grady Hospital more than 30 years and often worked in the Negro clinic.

The medical library includes hundreds of volumes, scientific papers and pamphlets. Mrs. Lokey said she could not estimate the number of medical books given the hospital. Dr. Lokey, an outstanding surgeon, died Feb. 23 at the age of 80.

Won't Pick Successor, Griffin Says

Gov. Marvin Griffin said Friday he does not plan to take part in next year's gubernatorial campaign which is beginning to pick up steam.

He told his news conference that he will not try to name a successor.

"The people were good enough to elect me their governor in 1954," he said. "I think they can elect the next one without any recommendations or suggestions from me."

Griffin said he is concentrating his efforts now on doing a good job for the people of Georgia. He said he would continue these efforts until the end of his term.

The role Griffin might play in the forthcoming primary has been a topic of considerable political speculation. Some observers have suggested that if the governor has his eye on the 1960 Senate race he would want to be followed by a friendly state administration.

However, he has declared previously that he has "no plans of any kind to oppose any candidate in the 1960 election."

On another subject, Griffin told his news conference that he was opposed to federal aid to education "as a general rule," if it meant federal dictation of the state's educational system.

But he said Congress conceivably could approve a school construction bill which would be acceptable.

"If we are taxed to support a general aid to education program without any strings, then it is up to us to get our share," Griffin said.

Griffin also said he expected to go into the subject of schoolteacher salaries in his speech to the Georgia Education Assn. convention here next Thursday.

Delegation Asks Mountain View Bill Be Vetoed

Clayton County legislators said Friday they will ask Gov. Marvin Griffin to veto a bill affecting the town of Mountain View because a majority of the town's registered voters are against it.

The bill was passed during the recent Legislature session at the request of Mountain View officials. Opposition among residents grew and the legislators were presented with a petition signed by 308 persons.

The bill, besides creating a town recorder's court, also lets the city assess taxes for waterworks and sewerage, and levy for streets, sidewalks and other purposes.

Fake Bug Operation Pays Off

Two Atlanta detectives Friday took over the operation of a lottery pickup station. And for a time they did a landslide business.

Detectives W. K. Perry and C. J. Strickland said they took a half-dozen tickets until neighbors became suspicious and began banging on the outside of the house, demanding to know what was going on.

Among those arrested was Jake P. Phillips, 46, Negro, of 233 Wellington St., SW. The officers said they found 11 books of lottery tickets hidden in Phillips' shoes.

Two of the persons who started banging on the outside of the Wellington street house were arrested on disorderly conduct charges, the officers said.

Tobe Says New Coat Length On Fashion Scene

For the last season or two, a new coat length has been hovering in the fashion horizon. Introduced first by Balenciaga in Paris, it has finally arrived in an important way on our American scene as well.

These new coats are shorter than full length, but can by no means be called "short" coats. Some are just about six inches above the hem of the dress, some just cover the knees.

They are roomy in cut but either hang straight or are tapered in line. To me, they look young and fresh, and I know that coats of this length are always easy to wear.

Atlantan To Attend Conference

An Atlanta woman is among 35 newly appointed national committee chairmen and vice chairmen of the National Council of Catholic Women who will meet in Washington on March 26.

Mrs. John S. Correll will take part in the three-day training session on lay leadership, organization structure and traffic safety. The meeting will be sponsored in part by a grant from the Automotive Safety Foundation.

Bedlam Reigns as Young Politicos Seek State Beta Club Offices

By BETTY CARROLLTON

The smartly dressed woman stepped from the elevator into the lobby of the hotel.

She stopped suddenly, and gasped as she stepped into the middle of confusion.

"What on earth is it?" she asked her companion in a puzzled voice.

"Must be a political convention of some kind," he answered, taking her arm to steer her through the bedlam—boys and girls perched on the steps, piles of literature surrounding them.

"HAVING A TIME?"

"They're certainly having a time," she commented as she threaded her way through high school students dressed as Woody Woodpecker, others in the middy blouses of sailors.

It WAS a political convention, of a sort. And the sort of convention that old-time politicians might well long for.

Georgia's Beta Club members were campaigning for their favorite candidates for state offices in the organization, to be elected during their two-day convocation, the likes of which hasn't hit Atlanta since last year's Beta delegates closed up shop.

TRUMPETS

From the mezzanine came the loud blasts of trumpets, horns and the beat of drums to the tune of the Mouseketeers, as a group quickly organized a bunny-hop behind Southwest's Harry Wood.

"Who's the boy for president that's made for you and me?" "H-A-R-R-Y W-O-O-D," they chanted as they wound their way through the lobby. Just behind Harry were three students dressed as Woody Woodpecker, their campaign symbol.

They swung into "It's Vote for Woody Time," to the tune of "Howdy Doody," and the lyrics of "My Darling Clementine" gave way to new words to an old tune as they sang Woody's praises.

From the center of the floor came a cheer: "L-U-C-K-Y Leigh for V. P."

"AIR, LAND OR SEA"

The campaign for Dee Hofmann of Clarkston, candidate for state vice president, had a nautical flavor: Her followers were dressed in middy blouses, navy skirts, and pet sailor hats as they sang out:

"Travel by air, land or sea: Come to the convention and vote for Dee."

Photos of pretty Belle Frier of Cartersville, another candidate for state veep, looked out at the delegates from bell silhouettes on placards on the backs of another group of conventioners.

"It's good news: (Nancy) Matthews—for secretary," cheered followers of Decatur's candidate for state secretary. . . . "We

2 PTA Groups To Meet Monday

Two PTA groups have set meetings for Monday, March 13.

The need for public recreation areas in Tucker will be discussed by a panel from the co-ordinating civic club at the Tucker Elementary PTA meeting at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Mrs. Porter Britt and Edward Randolph will direct the discussion.

Sarah Smith PTA will hear Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver talk on safety and civil defense at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The speaker has been active in state and national civil defense circles. A social period in the cafeteria will follow the meeting.

2,500 Betas Here For Convention

Nearly 2,500 outstanding students of Georgia high schools officially opened the 18th annual Beta Club convention here Friday night, with fun and fellowship mingled with the business at hand.

A bit weary from "stumping" for favorite candidates for state offices, the youth leaders were cognizant of their responsibilities and adamant in their desire to make Beta a better-known organization.

Albert "T" Turnell, Morgan County High senior and state Beta president, presided at the first general session Friday night at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel, welcoming delegates and guests.

LEADERSHIP AND SERVICE

A personable young man who exemplifies the Beta creed of leadership and service, "T" confessed that he has "gotten more out of" the state office than he ever thought possible.

"Until I began working so closely with the organization," he explained, "I didn't know the great work accomplished by the Beta Club."

"T" added that "it's really a shame" more people are not fully acquainted with the Beta Club, its purposes and its accomplishments.

"Beta is a relatively young organization," he said, recalling that the club was founded in 1933, "but it is a growing organization and has a great future."

"STIMULATE EFFORT"

He added that the Beta Club, national in scope, "was founded to stimulate effort, reward achievement and to encourage and assist its members to continue their educations after high school."

"T," planning to enter medical school following his graduation, reported that 11 new chapters were organized in Georgia last year.

"That's a good sign," he commented, "but it's still surprising how little the general public knows of Beta."

"We hope to educate the public to such an extent that Beta will be rightfully recognized as an important, worthwhile organization that gets things done."

DR. SPARKS SPEAKS

In addition to a welcome from "T," delegates were addressed by Dr. George M. Sparks, president of the Georgia State College of Business Administration, representing the State Beta Council, and by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, speaking on behalf of the convention city.

The response was given by Joe Robert Brannen of Portal.

A highlight of the first general session was a talent contest with Martha Jo Voyles of Jonesboro, state vice president, as mistress of ceremonies.

Schools taking part in the talent show included Bacon County, "Bacon's Beta Worm"; A. L. Miller Senior, "Annie Get Your Gun"; Jonesboro, "Mardi Gras"; Cave Spring, "What's Behind the Green Door"; Lyons, "Modern Version of Romeo and Juliet," and Perry, "Views of the News."

AWARDS SATURDAY

Awards for the talent show will be presented at a Saturday morning session.

Martha Jo Voyles will preside at the second general session at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, following a sponsors' breakfast conference, with Miss Dorothy Simmons, state sponsor, presiding.

Members of the Decatur Senior Beta Club will participate in a forum discussion, "Why Go to College?" with Ben Moore presiding. Members of the forum will include Pat Meyer, Chris Foster, Jimmy Avant, and Lynda White.

Mary Jane Minor of Southwest High, state secretary, will preside at the third general session, scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Steve Burrell of Talulah Falls will give the invocation.

FORMER PRESIDENT

A highlight of the session will be an address by Claude Reed, of Newton County, now with the U.S. Army, past state president of the organization.

Certificates of merit will be awarded by E. G. Elcan.

Election results will be announced before adjournment. A banquet at the hotel will climax the convention activities on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Dr. Mark A. Smith will be toastmaster, and the banquet will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Howard Kirksey, dean, Middle State College, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

New state officers will be installed.

The annual Beta Ball will follow the banquet, to complete the convention.

ST. PATRICK IN THE MORNIN'

There's a little bit of Ireland... in the heart of every man... if he bears the name of Murphy... Shaughnessy or Callahan... Some of them are warm and friendly... some of them are stiff as starch... but the whole shebang gets happy... on the Seventeenth of March.

There's a little bit of Ireland... where the Irish settle down... in the city... or some little country town... some of them are proud and haughty... in a most peculiar way... and a lot of them are naughty... on the good St. Patrick's Day.

If you are a friend, they like you... but they hate you if you "ain't"... they'll get mad at you and strike you... which must pain their Patron Saint... but they also are forgiving... and are quick to make amends... and there's lots of fun in living... with our funny Irish friends.

So, in all of this creation... on this very special date... there will be a celebration... where Hibernians hibernate.

12 Compounds Slow Cancer, Institute Director Says Here

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

About a dozen chemical compounds have been found to have "cancer-inhibiting" effects, the director of the National Institute of Cancer said in Atlanta Friday.

The Institute director, Dr. John R. Heller of Bethesda, Md., said a chemical testing center has been set up at Bethesda for the "systematic screening of all chemical compounds" that might be effective against cancer.

Dr. Heller said those few chemicals or drugs that do "inhibit" the growth of cancer in animals are tested further—and finally tried on human cancer patients. He noted about 100 hospitals are taking part in the trials.

"We are trying to find out if they work better singly or in combinations," he said.

COST OF TESTING

He said complete testing of a chemical compound costs about $500,000.

Dr. Heller said some 30,000 compounds a year now can be "screened" for cancer-inhibiting properties.

"I am sure a major breakthrough will come in the treatment of cancer patients with drugs," Dr. Heller said. "It may be this year or it may be five or 10 years from now... but I am very optimistic."

Dr. Heller was one of five authorities on cancer who spoke at a cancer forum at the Academy of Medicine under the sponsorship of the Georgia Division, American Cancer Society.

'Barretts' Casting Excellent

One of the classic love stories of all time is re-told in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," now at the Tower Theater.

Jennifer Jones as Elizabeth Barrett Browning, John Gielgud as her fanatically domineering father, and Bill Travers as the poet Browning, head an excellent cast.

Selection of Miss Jones and Travers for the roles of poet-lovers may jar some devotees of the familiar stage version of "The Barretts." But Gielgud is the very personification of a tyrannical, inhibited Victorian parent. Virginia McKenna shines as a younger sister and other minor characterizations are uniformly good.

MGM's handsome color CinemaScope production, filmed in England, is faithful to the stage play with which Katherine Cornell was so long identified.

Reviewer's rating: Excellent drama. Family classification. (MARJORIE RUTHERFORD.)

Toscanini Street

BUENOS AIRES, March 15 (AP)—A block-long street alongside Buenos Aires' opera house has been renamed for the late maestro Arturo Toscanini. He conducted several performances on tour here.

Carolina Returns Writ For Doomed McAfee

Fulton County's murder warrant against Ross McAfee, a Negro field hand who confessed last year's slaying of a Fairburn woman, has been returned from North Carolina where the Negro has been sentenced to die in the gas chamber.

Sheriff T. Ralph Grimes' office said the warrant was sent back by Alexander County Sheriff T. E. Bebbert with word that McAfee is scheduled to die May 31 on a conviction of first degree burglary.

McAfee confessed the slaying here last October of Miss Willie Mae Milam.

J. W. Mason Is Dead at 82; Title Lawyer

James Walter Mason, Atlanta title lawyer, died late Friday night at his home, 1284 Fairview Rd., N.E. He was 82.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mr. Mason graduated from the University of Georgia in 1897 and from its law school in 1899. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholarship society.

He had been practicing law in Atlanta from 1899 until his recent illness. He was one of the organizers of the Atlanta Title Co.

He was an ardent book collector and a collection of his rare first editions of Georgia books, the J. Walter Mason Collection of Georgians, was bought by Georgia State University.

He was a member of the Atlanta Historical Society and the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church. He was several times president of the Carnegie Library Board.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Lucile Mason and Mrs. A. H. Sparks, both of College Park, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Roy Mason of Tallahassee, Fla.

Voting Machines Will Identify Incumbents Here

Charlie Brown, considered a probable entry for the mayoralty nomination, arrived after the public hearing had closed and committee members withheld it until after the balloting. Committee Secretary Sam Massell Jr., then read it.

Brown urged that incumbents not be designated. He also protested "unreasonably high entrance fees" and urged they be cut. He contended more candidates would make up for any cut. No action was taken.

Proponents of the listing contended principally that it would help voters by providing more information. Opponents contended it would be advantageous to incumbents.

Qualification lists will open at 9 a.m. Monday and will close at noon Saturday, March 23, under committee action. Candidates may qualify at the committee office at the City Hall up until 5 p.m. daily.

Ball Ground's Mrs. Lawson Dies Of Wreck Burns

Mrs. William Jake (Alice Venita) Lawson of Ball Ground, died Friday night at Grady Hospital as a result of burns received in an traffic crash Wednesday.

Mrs. Lawson was burned over 50 per cent of her body when the pickup truck in which she and her husband were riding collided with a tractor-trailer on the Marietta highway. An emergency appeal over radio and television outlets for her rare type blood, AB negative, was answered by many volunteers.

Funeral arrangements will be announced.

AUSTRALIAN AIR MINISTER VISITS LOCKHEED
F. M. Osborne (L), RAAF Capt. Parker Discuss Lockheed C130

Australian Air Minister Here, Lauds 'Hercules' After Flight

The Australian Minister for Air took to the skies in a C130 "Hercules" at the Marietta Lockheed plant Friday and came down enthusiastic over the plane's performance.

"Very striking," said F. M. Osborne. "I'm highly impressed." He was quick to point out, however, that he has no authority for making contracts on this trip to the U.S. He is here in connection with an around-the-world flight of three Royal Australian Air Force planes. He described the operation as "the largest single peacetime exercise ever taken by the RAAF."

2 Jungle-Born Tigers Move Into Zoo Here

The most expensive of Grant Park Zoo's new residents—two tigers valued at $1,200 each—arrived here Friday to join a recently purchased cheetah and an ocelot in the new $300,000 animal house.

Another cheetah and an ocelot, a leopard and a puma have been ordered for the zoo, parks manager George I. Simons said. No date has been set for their arrival, he said. They will be flown here shortly after they arrive in the United States.

The 18-month-old tigers are "jungle-born," Simons reported. However, he said he didn't know in what jungle they were born. The zoo's new animals are still unnamed. "We haven't had time to think about a name yet," Simons reported.

SHOP TALK

Hey Fred! Did you see that sharp TV set that Joe got the other day?

Yeah, Frank, and I can't understand how he did it—he doesn't make any more money than I do!

That's easy! He buys on the budget plan at Firestone—just a few bucks down, a little every payday. No strain on the old pay envelope that way.

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Griffin-Florida Road Held Likely by Lawson

Georgia now has a good opportunity to obtain a four-lane highway from Griffin southward to the Florida line but it will not come "overnight," State Highway Board Chairman Roger Lawson said Friday.

He spoke in Americus before a group of 65 leaders and officials representing seven counties along U.S. Route 19.

Lawson said the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956, contributing 50 per cent of the building costs, will make the road a reality some day. Initial plans call for building a two-lane system, with two other lanes to be added later.

In a question and answer session, Lawson said that stretches of road in Lee, Dougherty, Mitchell and Thomas counties are in an advanced planning stage, while surveys and planning in Sumter, Schley and Spalding counties are not so far along.

James J. O'Neill Sr. Funeral services for James John O'Neill Sr., 50, will be held at 1:15 p.m. Monday at Riverside Chapel. The Rev. Father James E. King will officiate. Burial will be in Marietta National Cemetery.

Mr. O'Neill, who lived at 3383 Oak Cliff Rd., SW, died Thursday at a Rome hospital after a long illness.

He was a guard at the Atlanta General Depot. He was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Rome.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. H. S. Dean Sr. of Atlanta and Miss Sandra O'Neill of College Park, and two sons, Jack and James John O'Neill Jr., both of College Park.

"We've helped them reach firm independence, and they are happy to remain with us in the commonwealth."

Lockheed officials said the Australian minister plans to rise early Saturday morning to take a short tour of the Atlanta area. They said he had read a great deal about the South, and this is his first chance to visit it.

He will return to Washington for further talks with high Air Force officials Saturday.

Lawyers Will Hear

Complaints on Ethics

The Stone Mountain Bar Assn. will hold a public meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday to hear any evidence of barratry (soliciting of clients by lawyers).

A member of the committee said there have been "rumors of barratry" in the Stone Mountain Circuit.
